POST'S BRIDGE TOURNEY GETS FLYING START

More Than 300 Entrants Take Part in Opening Day's Matches.

CONTRACT, AUCTION CLASSES COMPETE

In the spacious new ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, never before used for any purpose, more than 300 bridge fans assembled yesterday afternoon to participate in the opening session of the first annual bridge tournament of Washington players, sponsored by The Washington Post.

The event was the pair contest in both forms of the game, contract and auction, each being divided into two classes, one for advanced players and one for intermediate players. In the contract division were six sections, each with seven tables, making a total of 168 players, while the auction section was made up of five sections, each with seven tables, a total of 140 players.

The second event of the day, embracing the auction matches in teams of four, was started at 8 o'clock last night, also with upward of 300 players, fully one-half of whom had taken part in the afternoon pair contests.

Contract Matches Tonight.

The contract matches for teams of four will be held tonight and tomorrow night, when approximately 440 players, entered for this form of the game, will take part. This will bring the total number of competitors for championship prizes offered by The Post well over the 750 mark and make the tournament the largest ever held in this or any other country.

The players began to assemble at the hotel shortly after 1:30 o'clock, and the first undertaking was to get them properly seated in the several sections with their opponents. This was speedily accomplished and when R. E. Needham, manager of the tournament, blew his whistle for attention a hush fell over the room while he proceeded to explain the method of the play and the movement of the players and the duplicate boards.

Mr. Needham opened his remarks by complimenting the players upon the enthusiasm shown in the event and congratulated The Post upon the success of the tournament which was indicated by the representative gathering of persons prominent in diplomatic, official, professional, business and social circles of the Capital.

Fourteen boards were played at each table. The time occupied by the play was a little less than three hours.

32 Trophies Are Displayed.

The 32 handsome trophies offered as prizes by The Post were attractively displayed in the hotel lobby and served to inspire the players to their best efforts.

Following is the list of leaders in yesterday afternoon's pair contests in both classes of the two forms of the game:

Baltimore Mayor Accepts Back Pay

Retiring, Broening to Sail for France as Guest of Government.

Baltimore, Md., May 14 (A.P.).—Mayor Broening, Mrs. Broening and their son left today for New York to sail for France. In the mayor's pocket was a check for $8,000 he decided he would accept after refusing it for four years.

The money represented an increase in salary from $10,000 to $12,000 granted in 1927, but refused then and every year since by Mayor Broening. Today the check was made out and left on his desk and the mayor capitulated.

Mayor Broening is to be the guest of the French government along with mayors of others cities which entertained the fliers Coste and Bellonte after their transatlantic flight. The party sails tomorrow from New York. Mayor Broening's term expires next Tuesday.

Realty Man Winner Of Fifth $100 Prize

Fortune smiled yesterday on Fraser S. Gardner, independent real estate salesman of 600 Oglethrope street northwest. Mr. Gardner won the first prize of $100 for the best amateur ad submitted in the fifth period of The Post-Zain Ad Writing Contest.

This week's winner, like the four before him, was greatly surprised at the judges' decision, despite the fact that for weeks he has been assiduously writing ads in hope of winning. Mr. Gardner chose National Pale Dry Ginger Ale to write about.

There were four other grand prize winners for the week. The lucky ones were Mrs. C. M. Cassidy, 5111 Forty-fifth street northwest; Grover Everett, 613 A street northeast; Donald K. Albertson, Munitions Building; William R. Whipp, 404 North Maryland Courts, Ninth and E streets northeast.

And then there were 175 additional winners of prizes in merchandise who will learn of their good fortune in The Washington Post tomorrow.

"National Pale Dry Gingerale seemed to me the ideal subject to write about," Mr. Gardner said, when informed of the decision."

Finding that he might have received an additional $10 in cash had he been a subscriber of The Post, he immediately entered his daily and Sunday subscription, so that he may stand to win the additional bonus in succeeding weeks, or the extra $50

RIOTS IN SPAIN HALT; CHURCHES REOPENED

Cabinet Holds Long Session to Deal With Situation; Palace Is Seized.

Madrid, May 14 (A.P.).—The government is "highly pleased" with the extent to which order has been restored in Spain following upon the week's riots, Minister of Interior Maura announced tonight, and the cabinet has decided it will not be necessary to meet again until Monday.

A long cabinet session was held tonight.

A commission was named to study the Spanish agricultural problem, including the matter of the cultivation of the large estates which are now untilled. The hope was expressed that the solution of this problem will cut down the possibility of further disorders by relieving the unemployment situation.

As an economy measure, all admirals and the captain general were eliminated from the navy list and it was announced they would probably be retired or transferred to other posts.

The summer palace of former King Alfonso at San Sebastian was formally seized by the government tonight, following upon the decision last night to impound his possessions pending an investigation. Customs guards took the palace over. It was estimated to be worth approximately $750,000 and was a gift from the people of

Berwyn Girl Found In Hospital Ward

Doctor's Foster Daughter Located in Baltimore; Feared Kidnaped.

Ruth Wantamaker, 19-year-old foster daughter of Dr. and Mrs. M. L. Turner, of Berwyn, Md., who disappeared from Union Station on May 7, has been located in the Baltimore City Hospital.

The girl was found wandering on the streets of Baltimore on May 11, but how she got there or where she had been for four days she was not able to tell. Mrs. Turner insists that she must have been kidnaped and taken to the Maryland city, as she had no money when she disappeared.

When found, she was arrested as a vagrant and sentenced to serve three months. She will be released this morning in the custody of Dr. Turner, however, by Magistrate Joseph F. O'Donnell.

HIGHER-UPS SOUGHT IN HUGE RUM RING

Fingerprints of Men Taken in Maryland Raids Are Sent Police Here.

Baltimore, Md., May 14 (A.P.).—In the hope of tracing some of the principals connected with the Chesapeake Bay liquor smuggling base broken up near Cambridge in the last two days, Federal officers widened their investigation today to include New York, Philadelphia and Washington.

The fingerprints of the fourteen men arrested were forwarded to police of those cities. Officials expressed the belief some of the men, all of whom gave New York addresses, have gang connections.

Coast Guard craft were directed to search for the ocean-going vessel believed to have brought into the bay the 650 cases of liquor which were seized along with two high-speed express cruisers and three motor trucks.

The fourteen men, held under bonds of $20,000 each, were brought to Baltimore to face charges tomorrow of violating the Federal customs laws. The seized liquor trucks and boats also were brought here.

For two years or more, officials said, liquor has been brought into Chesapeak Bay from Canada or the Caribbean, taken ashore by the smaller, faster boats, and loaded on motor trucks for delivery to Northern cities.

The 400-case cargo of the Whippoorwill, the 54-foot 1,200-horse-power craft seized when it ran aground yesterday, indicated that it originated in either Canada or Honduras.

Toscanini Slapped By Angry Fascists

Noted Conductor Ordered to Leave Bologna for Spurning Anthem.

Bologna, Italy, May 14 (U.P.).—Arturo Toscanini's refusal to open a concert by playing the royal anthem and the Fascist hymn caused youths in the audience to punch and slap him tonight, and to demand that the famous conductor leave town.

As he was about to commence the concert, Fascist youths demanded that he play the patriotic airs. "I came to conduct a concert, not to play anthems," said Toscanini, his artist's temperament ablaze.

Then Fascist youths gathered around Toscanini, punched him twice, slapped him repeatedly in the face and demanded that he leave the country. Toscanini left the theater in a rage. Members of the audience followed him to his hotel, shouting angrily.

Sir Thomas Lipton Named To Royal Yacht Squadron

Headed by King George, One of the Most Exclusive Clubs in World at Last Elects to Membership "Self-Made" Merchant Prince.

London, May 14 (A.P.).—Sir Thomas Lipton, 81-year-old British yachtsman, today was elected a member of the Royal Yacht Squadron, and henceforth the coveted white ensign will fly over his Shamrock.

The ensign is the exclusive emblem of the royal navy and royal squadron. All other yachts of Britain must be content with the red "duster" of the merchant fleet, or, in special instances, the blue ensign.

Many British people were asking today, however, why the man who had done more for British yachting than any other should not have been accorded the honor of membership in the squadron years ago.

The Royal Yacht Squadron, of which King George V is admiral, is one of the most exclusive clubs in the world. Sir Thomas was born in a Scottish tenement house and achieved wealth and prominence in the business world as a "self-made" man.

This fact, it was believed, might partly answer the question, although some of the oldsters in West-End clubs were speculating as to whether Sir Thomas' long exclusion might not also have been due to the fact that, in former days at any rate, the very nature of his business made it necessary to placard Britain with Lipton signs.

Some of the older aristocratic members of the squadron, it was said, could not stand the shock of being even indirectly associated with such a blaze of publicity.

There is an old story that King Edward VII tried several times to per-

BRITAIN HALTS PLAN TO BUILD MORE AIRSHIPS

London, May 14 (A.P.).—The British government will build no more airships for the present, Ramsay MacDonald told the House of Commons today, but the R-100 will be retained as a "sort of experimental ship."

The debate and the prime minister's statement was the first occasion on which the House has discussed the nation's airship policy since the R-101 disaster. Mr. MacDonald prefaced his speech by saying that the catastrophe made it obvious that the policy must be reviewed.

As he saw it, he explained, there were three alternatives—to go on building airships, to scrap everything, or to take the middle course by maintaining a scientific experimental interest in lighter than aircraft without engaging in new construction.

R-100 to Be Repaired.

The government proposes to follow the last course, and the R-100 will be reconditioned, the Cardington air center will be maintained and the mooring masts at Montreal, Karachi and Ismailia will be retained as the "nucleus" of Great Britain's airship activities. The maximum annual cost of this program, Mr. MacDonald said, will be about $700,000.

Sir Samuel Hoare, air minister in the last Conservative government, and Sir John Simon, who wrote the R-101 report, expressed complete approval of the prime minister's announcement.

It was said to be the view of the government that for the limited program of the R-100, it would be unnecessary to consider substituting helium for hydrogen.

America In Lead.

(Associated Press.)

The decision of the British government to build no more huge dirigibles places the United States in the forefront as a sponsor of this type of aircraft.

The Navy has one dirigible, the Akron, the largest of its type, nearing completion at Akron, Ohio. The last Congress made an initial appropriation toward the construction of another, in addition to providing funds for an additional dirigible base to be located at Sunnyvale, Calif.

For some time there was a division of opinion among naval authorities as to the value and practicability of the dirigible in naval warfare, and definite decision as to whether to build the second vessel is being held in abeyance pending the acceptance of the Akron after tests and trial flights.

Second Ship Urged.

However, Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the Naval Bureau of Aeronautics, has urged the construction of the second ship.

This would give the Navy two ships of 785-foot length and 6,500,000 cubic feet volume each. Each will carry six airplanes and will have a cruising radius of about 12,000 miles. Their total cost will be $8,000,000, or $5,250,-

BRIAND TO KEEP MINISTRY POST, PARIS BELIEVES

Defeated Candidate Goes on Mission to Geneva After Ovation.

VOTE FOR PRESIDENT HELD NOT HOSTILE

Cabinet Council Declines to Accept His Resignation; Will Push Union.

Paris, May 14 (A.P.).—The chances of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand remaining at his post in spite of his defeat in the presidential election appeared greater tonight in view of his agreement to go to Geneva for the meeting of the committee on a Pan-Europa federation.

Yesterday's vote was generally interpreted as not being hostile to him as foreign minister and the hope was widely expressed that he would have a reception at Geneva that would induce him to change his mind about resigning. He tendered his resignation to the council of ministers today, but they refused to accept it.

While M. Briand did not indicate his future intentions, if he remains in Geneva for the opening session of the Pan-Europa committee and represents France at the meeting of the League of Nations council, his friends predict that he will end by withdrawing his resignation.

Political Heat Cools.

The political heat which flared about the national assembly at Versailles yesterday has cooled off. President-elect Paul Doumer is described as a safe and sane officeholder, aloof from political strife, by all newspapers except the irreconcilable Socialist organs.

M. Briand's defeat is widely characterized as not affecting France's foreign policies. It was revealed that when he learned the result of the balloting he said characteristically, "I have known many others."

M. Briand left tonight for Geneva. He was enthusiastically cheered at the station by a crowd of admirers which had to be held back by police.

Faces Formidable Task.

Geneva, May 14 (A.P.).—Fresh from his defeat in the presidential election at home, Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, tomorrow will resume his efforts to lead European statesmen toward his ideal of a European economic union.

On the eve of the reconvening of the commission for studying the proposed Pan-European Union, observers were of the opinion that the veteran French minister faces a formidable task.

It is pointed out that relations between European governments have in no wise improved since the commission last met in January. In addition the economic depression is still being felt as it was four months ago.

The much-discussed proposal for an Austro-German customs accord is one of the important matters to come before the meeting. Dr. Julius Curtius, German Foreign Minister, will present his country's side of the project.

Germans Are Determined.

It is understood the German delegation reached Geneva with plans to push their proposal vigorously and willing to see the issue placed before the permanent court at The Hague.

However, the general economic problem is likely to occupy more of

Legion to Ask Hoover For Economic Parley

Executive Committee Wants National Conference Called to Solve Causes of Distress; 6,000,000 Idle Reported.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 14 (A.P.).—The national executive committee of the American Legion late today directed Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander, to petition President Hoover to call a nonpolitical conference to solve the causes of economic depression.

The report of the legion's national unemployment commission, adopted unanimously, also urged "that such commission analyze the charges that have been freely made in the press, that the financial and business leaders failed to recognize the warning signs fully one year ahead of the depression, and failed to sound the warning that may have, in some measure, minimized the depression that followed."

The national commander was directed to ask the President to call together, in a nonpolitical way, representatives of labor, of industry, of capital nd finance, of agriculture "and other elements of our national life."

The report of the commission related that a national survey by the 10,000 posts of the legion indicated more than 6,000,000 persons out of employment.

The commission estimated 750,000 former service men were among those out of work. It added that through the agencies of the legion posts approximately 170,000 men were placed in employment.

"Drives for relief, spasmodic efforts in behalf of the unemployed," the report says, "serve well their purpose temporarily, but until a solution of the causes of depressions and panics is arrived at, advancement of the Nation * * * must necessarily be retarded. * * *

"We believe a continuance of the growing unrest, caused by the unemployment of willing hands, and by the lack of the proper necessities to live up to the standards established in this country, will ultimately lead to dire results, if something constructive is not accomplished in the near future."

The report urged that such a conference as requested, "analyze the charges that our legislative bodies have in some way erected barriers which have caused a limitation in the sales of the products of the American workman."

Newark Revenue Man Accused of Mail Fraud

Newark, N. J., May 14 (A.P.).—Paul A. Brothers, employe of the Newark Internal Revenue office, was arrested today on a Federal warrant for removal to Baltimore to face a charge of using the mails to defraud.

Brothers told police he knew of no grounds for his indictment.

Heart Attack Ends Career of Star Maker, Famous for Extravaganzas.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—David Belasco died today, ripe with the labors by which for more than 50 years he helped to shape the course of the American stage.

Two months short of his seventy-seventh birthday, the little gray dean of Broadway succumbed to a heart attack in the hotel suite which had been his solitary home for many years. At his bedside were his only child, Reina (Mrs. Morris Gest) and his two physicians.

Several months ago an attack of pneumonia caused him to be brought home, seriously ill, from Atlantic City, where he was trying out a new play. It was feared he was fatally stricken then, and he missed the Broadway opening of his play—the first he had failed to attend. But he recovered, re-

UPRISING THREATENS CENSORSHIP IN CHINA

Rebellion Looming in South May Bring Restriction in Shanghai Area.

Shanghai, May 14 (A.P.).—With rebellion reported imminent in south China and mysterious mobilization of threatening troops reported north of the Yellow River in Honan, the Nationalist government announced today censorship soon would be clamped on all international cable and radio facilities of Shanghai.

The government made no mention of these disturbing factors, merely saying the censorship was considered necessary as an emergency measure.

Dispatches from Kwangtung and Kwangsi Provinces for a week or more, however, have stated Military Governor Chen Chi-Tang was raising an army of 50,000 men to back his demands that Chiang Kai-Shek retire from leadership of the Nationalist government.

Other dispatches from Nanking quoted Chiang as saying he was prepared to take military action against Governor Chen and his disgruntled fellows at Canton.

From Kai Feng it was reported large numbers of troops of unknown affiliation were digging trenches in Honan Province north of the Yellow River.

To meet this threat, the government was building an aerodrome at Kaifeng and establishing field hospitals along the Haichow-Tungkwan Railway where last year a half-million

CENTER, PARK ITEMS HIT IN BUDGET TALK

Civic Body Chiefs Divided on Necessity of $3,000,000 Reserve Fund.

Representatives of trade and civic bodies who were called into conference yesterday by District Commissioners in connection with the slashing of $12,000,000 from departmental budget estimates were in general agreement that the cuts should be in what they termed luxury rather than necessary items. All were opposed to any tax rate increase, but there was a difference of opinion regarding the value of a reserve fund.

The Municipal Center, for which there is an estimate of $3,000,000 to carry forward the work already begun and further provided for in the 1932 appropriations, came in for the greatest objection. The next greatest cuts should be made in parks and perhaps in street improvements, the laymen said.

Postponement of the Municipal Center project is likely to meet strenuous objection from Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, as it is obvious that this gigantic undertaking is one closest to his heart.

There was virtually a unanimous stand against any great reduction in the programs of the schools, Health Department, Police and Fire Departments.

Dr. George C. Havenner, chairman of the Citizens Advisory Council, con-

Son Born to Mrs. Chewning, Senator Couzens' Daughter

Baby Will Be Named After Paternal Grandfather; Mother, Whose Elopement Startled Capital Society, and Infant Are "Doing Well."

A son was born yesterday to Mrs. William Jeffries Chewning, jr., daughter of Senator James Couzens, whose elopement with Mr. Chewning startled Washington society. The child, which weighed 7 pounds and 9 ounces, was born at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Columbia Hospital.

Mr. Chewning told The Post last night that the baby will be named William Jeffries Chewning 3d, after his paternal grandfather and father. The baby is the seventh grandchild of Senator Couzens.

Both the mother and child were reported at the hospital as "doing well." As soon as Mrs. Chewning is strong enough, the mother and child will go to their home at 4426 Garfield street northwest, Wesley Heights, where there is a nursery room specially designed for the new arrival.

In February, 1930, Margo Couzens and Mr. Chewning eloped to Baltimore. Mr. Chewning, then a bank clerk, now is an assistant manager of the Mayflower Hotel. After the wedding they spent their honeymoon in Norfolk, Va., and visited Mrs. Chewning's parents, who live nearby.

ENVOYS GIVEN AMPLE GUARD, INQUIRY BARES

Salvadorean Will Not File Claim With U. S. for Stolen Rum.

POLICE PUSH SEARCH FOR LIQUOR THIEVES

X-Ray Reveals Dr. Leiva Has Slight Skull Fracture Caused by Blow.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Washington police are giving "ample protection" to the 54 embassies and legations here, Assistant Secretary of State Francis White announced late yesterday.

This announcement ended the so-called investigation of the Police Department by the State Department, an investigation growing out of the robbery of the Salvadorean Legation by liquor thieves and the assault upon Dr. Don Carlos Leiva, the Counselor and Charge d'Affaires.

Assistant Secretary White's statement followed one by Don Roberto Melendez, Second Secretary of the Salvadorean Legation, to the effect that Dr. Leiva would not file a claim with the United States Government for the liquor that was stolen Wednesday morning.

Dr. Leiva himself remains in Emergency Hospital, and in a condition that is somewhat worse than was at first suspected. An X-ray showed that one of the blows inflicted by a liquor thief had caused a slight fracture of the skull.

Vigorous Search Being Made.

Meanwhile, detectives are making a vigorous search for the thieves, one of whom has a lacerated finger that felt the clamp of Dr. Leiva's teeth.

The detectives continue to hold Bryant McMahon, who was arrested at a gambling house after the robbery.

Assistant Secretary of State White, who was assigned by Secretary of State Stimson to determine whether embassies and legations were receiving adequate police protection, sent an emissary to see Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, yesterday afternoon.

When State Department attaches learned the identity of the emissary they chuckled. He was Charles Lee Cooke, the department's ceremonial officer, one of whose tasks is to decree how the great, the near-great and the would-be-great should be seated at Washington dinner tables.

Maj. Pratt told Mr. Cooke how his department protects the embassies and the legations, how the beats of the policemen are shortened in the neighborhoods where these establishments are located, and how policemen are always provided for special protection whenever the diplomats ask for it.

Considered as Ample.

Maj. Pratt also told Mr. Cooke of the intensive efforts his detectives are making to apprehend the liquor thieves. Returning to the State Department, Mr. Cooke repeated all of this to Assistant Secretary White.

Whereupon, Mr. White told newspapermen the State Department considered that the protection being given was ample and sufficient.

From Fernando E. Piza, First Secretary of the Costa Rican Legation, and Dr. Leiva's closest friend here, a few facts hitherto unrevealed were obtained yesterday.

Senor Piza said the liquor thieves evidently had planned their robbery several weeks in advance. This, he said, was indicated by the nightly telephone calls received at the Salvadorean Legation.

"The phone would ring," he said, "but when some one would answer it, the caller would hang up. Evidently they simply wanted to know whether or not any one was in the house."

Police Notified Once.

"We didn't know whether it was a joke or not," Senor Piza said. "On one occasion, however, the Police Department was notified. That was about three weeks ago. A policeman was sent to the legation and he made a thorough search of the house."

Senor Piza, who had been playing cards with Dr. Leiva the night the latter's legation was entered, believes the robbery was perhaps the first of a series planned by a gang from out of town.

If Dr. Leiva refrains from filing a claim for damages, and his assistant

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 2, 3, 11, 13 and 22

says he will refrain, it is doubtful whether the State Department will volunteer to indemnify him for the loss of the liquor.

As a matter of fact, there is some doubt now as to whether any liquor was actually stolen. Originally it was reported that seventeen cases were missing, but yesterday Senor Melendez said only Dr. Leiva knew how much liquor was in the legation and that consequently only Dr. Leiva could tell how much was missing.

Would Study Claim.

In any event, if Dr. Leiva should file a claim, the State Department would study it, decide whether or not this country had failed to provide adequate protection, and then decide either to grant it or to turn it down.

If the claim were awarded, the Government would give Dr. Leiva a sum of money covering the cost of the missing liquor. It would not have to pay him in kind—that is, in liquor.

It is probable that Congress would be called on to approve such an award, and it is not inconceivable that extreme drys in that body would attempt to block approval.

Not so long ago, Charles Hart, Minister to Persia, received $7,500 from the Persian government. His household goods were stolen while they were being transported across the desert.

Unjust Road Taxes Scored by Speaker

Highway Transportation Is Seen Offering Economy and Convenience.

Hot Springs, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—Walter Parker, economic counsel for the American Cotton Shippers Association, addressing the Electrical Manufacturers Club here tonight, said the public will never stand for the enemies of highway carriers to tax and regulate them out of existence.

"Highway traffic, as we now see it, is a new thing," he said. "Motor trucks and buses are mobile. Without change, the former can and do effect warehouse to warehouse deliveries, while the latter offer conveniences to travelers incapable of being offered by any other form of public transportation."

He asserted that highway transportation, now largely unregulated and untaxed, offers new convenience and economies.

CENSORSHIP LOOMING IN NEW CHINA REVOLT

men fought for months in the attempt of Gens. Feng Yu-Hsien and Yen Hsi-Shan to overthrow Nanking's rule.

(Associated Press.)

A private agreement between communications companies and the Chinese government, under which the companies received a renewal of their operation contracts, accorded the Chinese government the right of censorship within the International Settlement.

The agreement was made early this year between the Great Northern Telegraph Co., a Danish company, working from Europe across Siberia; the Eastern, a British company operating through the Suez Canal, and the Commercial Cable Co., a subsidiary of the Mackay interests, operating across the Pacific.

The Chinese government, through its ownership of the overland lines between the International Settlement at Shanghai and the cable head and wire center at Woosung, some 15 miles distant, was able to secure the censorship concession. Shanghai had previously been considered a free point of communication and not subject to governmental control.

Under the new system a Chinese official will be stationed in all offices in Shanghai having contact with the public.

State Department officials said yesterday the department and American representatives in China had played no part in the agreement.

EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ROAD WIDENING NEAR FOR PRINCE GEORGES

Bids Asked for Work on Last Narrow Link in Highway to Baltimore.

Bids have been asked for widening of the Baltimore boulevard from Bladensburg to Hyattsville and contracts have been let for widening of four bridges on this stretch of road.

This improvement will remove the last 20-foot-wide stretch of the most important link between Washington and Baltimore and relieve a traffic congestion which has been almost chronic since widening of the rest of the boulevard. The road from Hyattsville to Bladensburg, at the Peace Cross, will be widened to 30 feet, and it will be 40 feet wide between the cross and the District line.

Some of the boulevard traffic has been diverted along the extension of Rhode Island avenue so that a 30-foot road will serve between the two towns. From Bladensburg in, however, the road must carry the Defense highway traffic, making a wider stretch necessary.

Bridges on the Hyattsville-Bladensburg stretch, however, will be 40 feet, to allow for a later widening of this section.

Bids on the paving will be opened May 19, and work will start as soon as the contracts are let. Right-of-way has already been secured. Bids are also invited for the dredging of the Anacostia River where the road crosses it, which is part of the State road commission's flood relief plan.

A contract for adding 10 feet to the length of the twin bridges and widening them to 40 feet was awarded to the Fredericksburg Bridge Co., of Fredericksburg, Va., at a cost of $24,557.50. The work of widening the 216-foot span over the Eastern branch near Station 1473 and a bridge near Station 1506 was given to the Consolidated Engineering Co., of Baltimore, at a price of $29,294.

Bids had also been asked for curbing on Rhode Island avenue, from Johnson avenue in Hyattsville to the District Line, and the job was awarded to Joseph A. Lavezza & Sons, of Baltimore, the price to be $4,717.50. In addition to this work on the stretch, a point where the roadway has sunk will also be repaired, according to Joseph A. Chaney, highway engineer. The concrete road was laid on a fresh earth fill, which sank, cracking the concrete and lowering one side of the pavement.

Possibility that Noble F. Rushe, chief of the Hyattsville Volunteer Fire Department, might be chosen as president of the Maryland State Firemen's Association at its convention in Ocean City next July, was seen following a discussion at the county association meeting. Chief Rushe and George Colburn, of Princess Anne, on the Eastern Shore, were both discussed as candidates.

Although both men were mentioned the advisory board of the county group did not specifically indorse either. The Ocean City convention will be July 8, 9 and 10.

The meeting indorsed T. W. Vennemen, secretary of the association and member of the Riverdale department, for the post of trustee of the State association. Mr. Vennemen said he would decline to run if Shepard Bailey, of Cambridge, was also a candidate.

The association decided to appoint one member of each department to form a committee to help beautify approaches to the Capital for the Washington Bicentennial celebration in 1932.

The advisory council of the association adopted the standards for fire apparatus recently formulated after Class C specifications were amended to include combination ambulance and rescue squad wagons. The standards will be used as a basis for dividing the enlarged county appropriation recently authorized by the Legislature.

A committee was appointed to consult with a special committee of the Marlboro company to make arrangements for the county convention in Marlboro August 8. Members of the county association committee are Chief Jesse L. Cornwell, of Laurel; Chief Noble F. Rushe, of Hyattsville; George Finger, of Capitol Heights, and Chief Karl Young, of Mount Rainier, president of the county association. The Marlboro committee will probably be appointed at a special meeting of the company Tuesday.

A carnival will be held in Marlboro at the time of the convention, which is not to be confused with another carnival beginning Monday and lasting through the following Sunday. The first carnival, which will be held on the lot beside the courthouse, is to raise funds for the payments on new hose and the new engine.

James Murphy, of Washington, yesterday was fined $101 for driving while drunk and reckless driving, having been arrested after an accident with a bus in Seat Pleasant. He appealed the sentence, which was pronounced in Capitol Heights police court, and was released on bond of $1,000.

Councilman George Finger's charge of assault against William Comphor was postponed for another week. The original charge of disorderly conduct was changed to the assault count. Comphor is alleged to have struck Finger when the town officer visited his house to investigate allegedly insanitary drainage conditions.

Robert Simmons, of Capitol Heights, forfeited $10 on a charge of displaying fictitious markers, and Emmet Gordon forfeited $5 for driving without lights and $2 for having no registration card in his possession. Harry Brooke was fined $10 for driving without a permit, after being arrested by State Policeman W. A. Rogers.

Edgar Brooke, of Capitol Heights, was fined $1 after being convicted of reckless driving.

A case of suspected horse-poisoning near Croome has been reported to police. One of two horses thought to have been poisoned has died, but the other is recovering.

The horses belong to James Medley, colored, who is under indictment for larceny. Medley lives on the farm of Frank Tippett, near Croome.

Out on bond on a charge of stealing chickens, Charles Sword, of Brentwood, was yesterday arrested for stealing a watch, the day after he was held for the grand jury on the other count.

He is charged by Miss Margaret Livingston, also of Brentwood, with taking a watch valued at $50 from her and selling it in Washington. While admitting the selling, Sword is said to claim he found the watch near his home.

Sword appeared before Judge J. Chew Sheriff, in Hyattsville Police Court Wednesday, on charges of stealing two game chickens, worth $20, from William P. Seymour. Judge Sheriff held him for action of the grand jury on bond of $500.

The man was arrested on the watch charge by Officer Reuben E. Brown, and taken before Judge Retta D. Morris, who committed him to jail. Bond in the later charge has not been set.

The Ku Klux Klan will burn a fiery cross at District Heights Saturday night at 8 o'clock, and will have an open-air naturalization service. Speeches will round out the program.

Dr. O. G. Mingledorff, of Blackshear, Ga., is conducting a revival service in Perkins Chapel, in Lanham. The campaign will last until Sunday.

St. Jerome's Catholic Church of Hyattsville will hold a lawn fete June 1 to 6 on the Howard estate, which adjoins the Armory. Next door, in the Armory, the chamber of commerce will be holding its industrial show.

CURTAIN OF LIFE IS RUNG DOWN ON BELASCO, DEAN OF THEATER

turned to his studio 78 steps above the sidewalks of Forty-fourth street, and had been active again until this morning. Even until a few minutes before his death at 4:15 this afternoon his chance of recovery seemed good and he kept within an arm's reach the heap of plays from which he hoped to select two or three for production this fall.

Of Portuguese and Jewish parentage, Belasco came to Broadway in the later seventies when the theater district was moving uptown from Union Square to Madison Square, 20 blocks below its present vortex. A sallow, bashful lad, he was sure of himself and his greatness and fired with a passion for the theater.

Atune with the tempo of that florid and melodramatic day, he had not long to wait before New York paid heed to his work. In the decades that followed he became a starmaker and a pace setter in the theater. He made a star of Mrs. Leslie Carter in "The Heart of Maryland" and "Zaza;" his "Darling of the Gods" made Blanche Bates famous; David Warfield was to follow in "The Music Master," and Ina Claire, Fay Bainter, Lenore Ulric, Holbrook Blinn, Willard Mack and a score of other stars in scores of plays no less famous.

Yet he was even prouder of his stagecraft than of his stars. He spent $35,000 a year on a laboratory to experiment with stage lighting, and he gave to the stage many of its modern electrical refinements, including the "baby spot," which singled out a figure without flooding the stage with light. His scenic effects were the sort that could be called stupendous in days when the word didn't belong to the movies. No theatergoer worthy of the name has not shivered in a Belasco blizzard or cringed from a Belasco flood or forest fire.

Old Quarrels Patched Up.

Sometimes he quarreled with those who had been his stars. Breaches never explained sundered his ties with Mrs. Carter and David Warfield. But last summer, when David Warfield was thought to be dying, Mr. Belasco went to see him on his hospital bed and the two became fast friends again. And only a few months ago Mrs. Carter and Belasco buried their ancient enmity and talked again of working together in the theater.

Affectionate colleagues sometimes varied their references to him as "D. B." or "the governor," and spoke of "the old man," but never within his hearing. Age he never admitted, even in recent weeks when the lines of his cheeks grew deeper, his hair whiter and his voice more thin.

Always on his birthday he was "just 21 today," and never were more than 21 candles put on "D. B.'s" birthday cakes. Once he sulked for weeks at a reporter who called him dean of the stage.

Gave Mary Pickford Her Name.

The best known of Belasco anecdotes is how he gave Mary Pickford her name. She came to him with a note from Blanche Bates when she was Gladys Smith, living with her family in a Fourteenth street rooming house where another stage-struck girl named Lillian Gish was also rooming.

Belasco tried her talents and promised her a part, but said Gladys Smith wouldn't do for a name.

"I like 'Mary' better," suggested Gladys.

"That'll do for a first name. What are some of your relatives' names?" Belasco asked.

She named several. When she mentioned an uncle, John Pickford, Belasco stopped her.

"That's it," he said. "Mary Pickford."

And it was.

Never a smoker, never a drinker—save for the glass of champagne he drained with ceremonial pomp upon his birthday—Belasco varied in only two respects from a regimen devoted to the theater. He liked to ride for miles and miles behind a mute chauffeur in his modest black limousine, and he liked to watch a good boxing match. Had he lived, he would have been at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night with friends watching the fights.

Arthur Henderson and Dino Grandi, British and Italian foreign ministers, lunched together today.

Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Minister, and his Russian delegation are expected here Saturday. They will not participate in the first part of the discussions, which will deal with the constitution, organization and methods of work of the commission. However, they will have time for the debate on the European economic situation.

suade the squadron to elect Sir Thomas to membership, but failed.

The popular reaction to the veteran sportsman's election today, however, was one of unbounded satisfaction. The opinion of the man in the street seemed to be that the squadron did not honor Lipton so much by electing him as it honored itself.

The country generally has a very tender feeling for the aged seadog who refuses to be beaten in his attempts to lift "that old mug," the America's Cup, and bring it back to England.

MONTGOMERY ROAD HANDLING ASSAILED

Maj. Brooke Lee Says That County Is Victimized in Money Due Reports.

Discrimination against Montgomery County in the publication of overage money due on the part of Howard Bruce, who has just retired as a member of the Maryland State Roads Commission, is intimated in a statement released last night by Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic organization leader. Maj. Lee assumed the post on the roads commission left vacant by Mr. Bruce.

Maj. Lee pointed out that the charges billed the Montgomery County Commissioners were additional charges are not covered by the original estimates for work done by the State Roads Commission in building county roads, and for which the roads commission has assumed entire control. "It hardly seems reasonable now to infer that the county commissioners of Montgomery County knew of this large accumulation of overcharges for 1925, 1926, 1927 and 1928, when the State Roads Commission for the past three years did not know of such charges, especially since the State Roads Commission was keeping the only cost account books and making all the disbursements on this work," the major pointed out.

Maj. Lee said that in January the auditor of the State Roads Commission presented a statement of the road commission's construction account against the county in an amount due of approximately $844,000. The auditor later reduced this amount to $510,623.42, when canceled checks in the amount of $238,000 and the agreements between the county commissioners and the road commissioners were exhibited showing that the county had agreed to pay a definite amount for certain work, causing a reduction of another $100,000.

$510,623.42 Bill Presented.

The auditor presented a bill for $510,623.42 last February 27, which totaled 1925 to 1928 accounts of $275,640.72 and 1929-1930 accounts of -225,000. The January statement was the first intimation that the county commissioners had that the county commissioners, or Maj. Lee, had received of the existence of such a debt, he said. The only charge the county commissioners expected was one of less than $60,000 for completion of a grade crossing elimination commenced in 1928 by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and the account for which was closed in December, 1930, by the roads commission.

"The board of county commissioners did not expect any additional charges for work prior to 1929 because, in expending over $3,000,000 from the proceeds of Montgomery County road bond issues for the construction of additional roads in Montgomery County, the State road commissioners kept all the books and accounts and made all disbursements.

The county commissioners authorized the work on the basis of the original estimated cost of each section of road to be built. The work also was done by the State roads commission under State engineers' specifications and inspection. The additional charges, it seems, arose from the fact that the actual cost of the work exceeded the original estimates, which averages were not billed to the board of county commissioners by the State roads commission," the statement declares.

The Montgomery commissioners found themselves presented with a bill of $275,640.72, when they expected a charge of less than $60,000. The only method of payment they could suggest was to offer to pay in cash the $225,000 due for 1929 and 1930 construction, which charge they expected in the amount made and to ask the roads commission to apply the Montgomery County 1931 State roads construction allotment of $232,000 as part credit and pay the balance of $63,440 in cash. This method of payment was offered the roads commission in a letter dated March 6, 1931. The roads commission took no action on their request, Maj. Lee said, although such credits were allowed thirteen other counties because on the current books of the State roads commission. Frederick and Harford Counties were overdrawn on the commission books by $200,000 each, Allegany and Kent for over $100,000 each, Cecil, Garrett and Somerset for more than $50,000 each, Carroll, Queen Anne, Dorchseter and Worcester for more than $25,000 each.

"These amounts represent State road construction finished in those counties in 1930 in excess of the amount of the 1930 State funds available for this work. These amounts were all charged by the outgoing State Roads Commission to the 1931 allocation of State road construction funds due thes counties without any published minutes of published demands for payment in money by the State Commission," the major said. "The total amount of 1930 averages so credited by the outgoing commission in their treatment of 13 other counties amounted as of December 31, 1930, to $1,023,128."

County Holds Balance.

"Montgomery County had a credit balance on the roads commission's current books on December 31, 1930, of $23,850. Nine other counties also had credit balances totaling $164,705.

"At last Tuesday's first meeting of the incoming State Roads Commission, at which meeting I was present as a member, it was voted to reduce the $510,000 bill against Montgomery County by the $232,000 1931 State road construction allocation of Montgomery County and then accept the cash payment fofered by Montgomery County of the remaining $276,623.42 claimed by the State Roads Commission, thus discharging in full the principal amount of the obligation of the county to the State Roads Commission.

The State Roads Commission Tuesday also decided to allow the county commissioners of Montgomery County an opportunity to verify the items on the State books which supported unexpected avreages of 1925 through 1928 construction charges.

35,000 SEE MILITARY MASS AT UNIVERSITY

Catholic Stadium Packed as High Church Dignitaries Review Parade.

Blessed by Pope Pius XI in a special communication, a mammoth military field mass was held under auspices of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade yesterday morning before a crowd packing Catholic University Stadium to capacity and overflowing to vantage spots on the contiguous hillsides and in nearby campus buildings.

The assembly, numbering an estimated 35,000 persons, was composed largely of students from Catholic institutions in both Washington and Baltimore, pupils of the faith from public schools in both cities and members of various church bodies, aside from members of the Diplomatic Corps, guests of other denominations and other notables.

Present also were ranking prelates of the Catholic hierarchy from other cities, the entire assembly of Catholics being headed by Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, who pontificated at the mass, and the Most. Rev. Pietro Fumanosi-Biondi, apostolic delegate to the United States.

Prominent Guests Present.

Prominent among the guests were the Irish Minister and Mrs. Michael MacWhite, Rear Admiral William S. Benson, U. S. N., retired, naval aid to Archbishop Curley; Maj. Gen. and Mrs. H. L. Gilchrist, Rabbi Abram Simon, of the Washington Hebrew Congregation; Col. W. L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, among others.

The event opened with the procession of Catholic churchmen into the stadium and to the principal reviewing stand, followed by the principal guests, who were escorted to their seats by United States Marines of the First Regiment at Quantico.

Then began the march, with the first unit numbering 4,000 boys and girls, who marched around the bowl and took their places on stands reared directly behind the open-air altar, where they sang several numbers, including the "Star-Spangled Banner," as a finale to the ceremonies.

Behind them marched the Georgetown University R. O. T. C. and the St. John's College Cadet units, swinging at the far end of the stadium to form a guard of honor aisle to the altar.

Around the oval followed 800 students and priests of religious houses at Georgetown University, members of the faculties of several Catholic institutions, pupils of parochial schools of Washington, and a large assemblage from Baltimore, headed by the St. Mary's Industrial School Band. Following, came Notre Dame of Maryland College students and pupils of many high schools and parochial schools of Baltimore.

Archbishop Curley Leads.

When the march was completed, Archbishop Curley walked behind the church dignitaries through the guards of honor to the altar to pontificate at the mass. Before him went the Rev. Dr. George W. Johnson, professor of education at Catholic University, who delivered the sermon on missionary zeal.

"We are all called upon to be saints, but it is not easy to be a saint," he declared. "We must be sure that the cross of Christ is planted firmly in our hearts and that upon it is crucified all that is mean and selfish and cowardly and dishonorable in our characters. Christ conquered by means of the cross and only by means of the cross can we conquer."

"The success of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade depends upon the extent to which its members cultivate the great virtues of humility, obedience, purity, honor, courtesy, reverence and kindness, and all the virtues that shine forth so beautifully in the character of our Lord the Savior.

"Before you remove the mote from your brother's eye, you must remove the beam from your own."

VIRGINIA DEDICATES WASHINGTON STATUE

Harvard Professor Emeritus Speaks at Ceremonies in Richmond.

Richmond, Va., May 14 (A.P.).—Dr. Albert Bushnell Hart, professor emeritus of history at Harvard, today turned back pages of history more than a century in dedicating Houdon's statue of Washington at the Virginia Capitol.

Assuming that he were a New England contemporary of the Nation's first President, Dr. Hart lamented that the 1796 business of the infant republic prevented President Washington from leaving the Philadelphia Capitol to attend the exercises.

"The State has preceded the Nation in perpetuating in marble or enduring brass the features of our beloved President and most eminent son of Virginia," Dr. Hart said, addressing the assemblage, gathered in the "old House of Delegates hall," who, he said were the contemporaries of President Washington, but who actually were descendants of Washington's father, and a few other especially invited guests.

For 135 years the statue, completed in 1788, had stood in or near the Capitol rotunda without formal ceremonies marking its arrival in Virginia.

Chicago Canoeists Reach Baltimore

Two Men on 6,000-Mile Trip Will Return by Inland Water Routes.

Baltimore, Md., May 14 (A.P.).—Two canoeists who left Chicago last September 22 for a trip down the Mississippi, up the Atlantic Coast and back to Chicago via the Great Lakes, reached here today.

The two, Dick Grant, an architect, and Ernest Lassy, tied up their 16-foot craft at a pier and displayed a scrapbook containing signatures of officials and others in the cities they have visited.

Grant and Lassy said they would leave tomorrow or Saturday for Philadelphia by way of the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal, and thence by a series of inland waterways to Lake Erie. They hope to reach the end of their round trip of approximately 6,000 miles within a year of their date of departure.

Nye Committee Will Meet Today in New York to Continue Probe.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate campaign funds committee shifted operations to New York yesterday to consider its next step in the inquiry into what use Bishop James Cannon, jr., made in 1928 of $65,000 antiSmith campaign funds intrusted to him.

Chairman Nye left for New York with the same announcement that the committee would assemble there today or Saturday to determine its plans. While no hearing was scheduled, it was believed the committee was prepared to go into action again shortly.

Bishop Cannon, who has challenged authority of the committee, called yesterday on Senator Nye and asked what plans the committee had in mind. He said he was anxious to return to California. The chairman replied he hoped to announce the committee's plans by Monday. Senators Dale (Republican), Vermont, and Wagner (Democrat), New York, will meet in New York with Nye.

CHURCHES REOPENED IN SPAIN; RIOTS END

San Sebastian to the former king's mother, Queen Maria Christina.

Damage to church property at eight of the principal riot centers outside Madrid was estimated tonight at approximately $2,000,000. At Alicante, one of the places where the damage was heaviest, fifteen churches and religious houses were either looted or destroyed.

The outbreaks apparently have subsided. Catholics returned to their churches today for services commemorating the Ascension of the Saviour, one of the most important observances on the Catholic calendar and a national holiday. Business and industry of every kind were at a standstill. All large churches in cities and towns were packed with worshipers, while priests performed their duties.

Isolated instances of looting and the destruction of church property occurred today, but otherwise the operation of martial law seems to have restored order. Many arrests continued among monarchists, communists and hoodlum elements. Fires continued burning or smouldering in some places.

President Alcala Zamora told the press today he believed the disturbances were "coincidence" between monarchists and socialists. He had no proof, he said, but he was certain both the monarchists and extreme lefts wanted to discredit the republic and took advantage of the situation in recent days to do so.

President Alcala declined to discuss the government's plan to prosecute former King Alfonso except to say the attorney general was investigating whether Alfonso was connected with recent monarchist movements which officials believe led to the outbreaks.

FIVE G. U. YOUTHS FREED IN GUN DEATH

Witnesses Fail to Identify Students as Garden T Shoppe Suspects.

Five Georgetown University students, who were in custody in connection with the fatal shooting of Mrs. Lizzie Jaynes at the Garden T Shoppe on Good Friday night, April 3, were exonerated last night by police.

Witnesses of the holdup failed to identify the five students at a line-up last night at headquarters. Capt. Edward J. Kelly expressed complete satisfaction with the alibis offered for the students by their attorney, Austin F. Canfield. They were released.

Those held were: William M. Funck, Francis J. O'Brien, Edward F. Feighan, John T. Feighan, and Edward M. English. They were placed under arrest by Detective Sergts. Robert Barrett and Van D. Hughes on the suspicions of a waitress of the T Shoppe.

It was proved to the satisfaction of police that O'Brien was ill in Cleveland on the night of the holdup; Edward F. Feighan, was also in Cleveland on Easter vacation; John T. Feighan attended church services with a friend on Good Friday night; Funck and English had dinner with friends and spent the night playing cards.

They were taken into custody in an apartment at 2227 Twentieth street northwest.

Engineers Are Told Of New Windmill

Innovation in Design for Farm Power Plants Is Explained.

Baltimore, May 14 (A.P.).—A new type of windmill with the appearance of an airplane propeller, declared to represent a revolutionary advance over the familiar multibladed farm type used with limited success in developing electric power, was described today at the National aeronautic meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The single-bladed windmill was described by E. N. Fales, of Ashland, Wis., aeronautical engineer, who said that he and H. R. Stuart developed it as the result of wartime researches in the radio section of the Army Air Corps.

The new type windmill operatse on winds of from two to fifteen miles velocity, which, he said, are available at virtually all times in this country. the new type, using a 20-foot blade, operates on an average air velocity of eight miles per hour, generating from 60 to 90 kilowatt hours of electricity, the average consumption in modern homes, Fales said.

Purcellville, Va., May 14.—Inasmuch as the county school tax for Loudoun was reduced at a recent meeting of the supervisors 10 cents on the $100, or from 90 cents to 80 cents, the county school board in regular session yesterday, in view of the reduced income, made a reduction of 5 per cent in the salaries of trustees and teachers and in the local appropriations to the salaries of the supervisors and superintendent.

The board accepted the offer of citizens of Middleburg to pay the salary of a teacher in the Middleburg school for the session 1931-32 with the provision that the curriculum be extended to include the third or fourth years of high school for the school session, provided, however, that no teacher shall be appointed unless and until the sum of $1,000 shall be deposited with the county treasurer.

Orders Building Erected.

The board ordered a new two-room building to be erected at Mountville, provided that one-third of the cost be contributed by citizens of the Mountville Community League, subject, however, to approval of a loan of $4,000 from the State literary fund of the county board of supervisors and the State Board of Education. Alexander, $80; Lucketts, Lester Loy, $100, and the following prices were offered the respective bus drivers: Hillsboro, E. T. Crim, $70 per month; Hillsboro, J. F. Fleming, $70; Ashburn, J. A. Seaton, $150; Lincoln, Claude Lowe, $120; Round Hill, Roger Wynkoop, $10.

VIRGINIA DRUGGISTS DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Pharmacists Take Up Varied Questions at District Convention.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., May 14.—Pharmacists from a dozen counties of northern Virginia, members of group No. 1 of the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association, held their first annual district convention here today. It also was the first group meeting held since the association divided the State into four districts, with a view to gaining more members of the profession actively interested in solving problems arising from time to time in drug store management and ethics.

Walter S. Nicklin, Alexandria, district chairman, presided. S. C. Brooks, Winchester, was chairman of the local committee on arrangements. Welcoming addresses by Mayor F. A. Shryock and Secretary Andrew Bell, of the Chamber of Commerce, were responded to by G. E. Heller, Bedford, president of the State association. H. C. Littlejohn, Leesburg, and Cyril Mee, Winchester, were song leaders. The Rev. Dr. F. T. McFaden offered the invocation.

Following a luncheon, papers were read by members and a round-table talk held. In the afternoon addresses were delivered by L. S. Williams, Baltimore, president of the Maryland association; A. L. L. Winne, Richmond, secretary of the Virginia association; R. L. Swain, Baltimore, secretary of the Maryland Board of Pharmacy; Joseph B. Clower, pharmacist, Woodstock, Va.; E. F. Kelly, Baltimore, secretary of the American association; W. L. Lyle, Bedford, president of the Virginia Board of Pharmacy; James W. Roberts, Norfolk, vice president of the Virginia association; E. W. Timberman, pharmacist, Alexandria; Wortley T. Rudd, Richmond, dean of the Medical College of Virginia; N. Guy Miller, pharmacist, Purcellville, and G. P. Collard, manager Coca Cola Co., Baltimore.

Virtually all visitors remained for the group's first annual banquet tonight, at which H. C. Littlejohn was toastmaster. One of the features was an address by Col. Edgar Warfield, sr., Alexandria, said to be the oldest pharmacist in active service in the country. At the age of 90-odd years he still fills prescriptions and sells rouge and lipsticks to the modern girls of his historic city. Others on the speaking program included S. C. Brooks and the Rev. Dr. F. T. McFaden, Winchester, and Paul Pearson, president of the Retail Druggists Association, Washington. Miss Maribell Pennock and Cyril Mee, Winchester, sang.

Honor guests at the banquet included former Gov. Harry F. Byrd, Winchester; S. L. Hilton, treasurer, board of trustees, United States pharmacopeial convention, Washington; A. C. Taylor president District of Columbia Board of Pharmacy, and W. T. Kerfoot, secretary of the district board.

NINE DENY CLASHES IN RUM JURY ROOM

Affidavits Tell a Different Story From Those of Other Three.

Affidavits from nine of the jurors who found eleven men guilty two weeks ago of conspiring to violate the national prohibition act were filed with Justice Oscar Luhring yesterday by Assistant United States Attorney James Kirkland, who prosecuted the case. Previously, defense attorneys had filed with Justice Luhring one affidavit and two statements from the other three members of the jury.

The nine jurors whose affidavits were obtained by Mr. Kirkland painted a picture of the jury's meditations that was different from that painted in the other statements. They were unanimous in denying that there was any physical coercion, that any blows had been struck in the jury room, or that there were other unusual features attendant upon the lengthy deliberations.

The nine members declared that Samuel W. Farran complained that his feet hurt him, and that Clarence C. Cooling has complained of a headache after dinner on April 29. Juror Cooling refused to call a physician and even refused to take a restorative, the jurors declared in their affidavits.

None of the jurors was ill or nauseated, the jury as a whole did not indulge in card games except at the hotel or while out of the courtroom during arguments, and the jury did not refuse as a whole to consider the case at any time, the nine affidavits declared.

The defendants, who will come up today in Justice Luhring's court for such action as it may take, are Alfred G. Mendelson, Roy Beasley, Harry Kushner, Corbin Shields, Milton J. Lerner, Roy Ahearn, Thomas McNichols, Andrew Lebolo, Edward T. Groghan, Jack Baum and Frank E. Baker. Four others who pleaded guilty will be in court also. They are James P. Clarke and his wife, Nettie M. Clarke; Jerry Charteres and his wife, Elizabeth Charteres.

Mountain School Founder Honored

Georgia Institution Head Awarded Town Hall Club Medal.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Martha McChesney Berry, founder of the Berry School for mountain children in Georgia, has been chosen as winner of the Town Hall Club's gold medal for "An Accomplishment of Lasting Merit."

She won in the final balloting over Booth Tarkington, novelist; Marc Connelly, playwright; Daniel Frohman, producer, and George Foster Peabody, banker and philantropist. Fifty-one names were entered in the contest. The medal is to be presented in the fall.

Mrs. James Russell Parsons, president of the Roosevelt Memorial League, who sponsored Miss Berry, said of her school: "The children are taught to farm, to cook, to sew, to build houses and do carpenter work, and they go back to their homes to carry out the traditions of the Berry School, and to spread habits of industry, cleanliness and efficiency. Many of them become teachers, doctors, nurses, and men and women of affairs of influence in the community."

Mayors Present Bust of Herrick

Gift to City of Paris Given at Banquet on Liner in New York.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Carved from great wooden beams of the first White House at Washington, a bust of the late Myron T. Herrick, American Ambassador to France, was presented tonight to the City of Paris at a banquet aboard the French Liner Ile de France.

The bust was the gift of the American committee for the Paris International Exposition. It was presented by the committee chairman, George Harrison Phelps, to the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, in ceremonies broadcast over a national network.

The dinner was given by the French Chamber of Commerce in honor of 25 mayors of American cities, who will act as envoys and take the bust to Paris, where it will be turned over to the municipal council.

Editor Gets Warrant For Alleged Assailant

Elizabeth City, N. C., May 14 (A.P.).—W. O. Saunders, Elizabeth City editor and nationally known magazine writer, swore out a warrant today charging Elias Pritchard with striking him in the face several times because Pritchard had been attacked in Saunders' paper, the Independent, in connection with the municipal election campaign which closed Tuesday.

Pritchard was said to have threatened to repeat the attack every time his name appeared in Saunders' paper.

APPELLATE JUDGE TO AID LOWER COURT

Justice Groner Will Act on Case Before District Supreme Court.

Justice D. Lawrence Groner, of the District Court of Appeals, will sit with Chief Justice A. A. Wheat and Associate Justice Jesse Adkins, of the District Supreme Court, in a trial coming up Monday in the District Supreme Court. It will mark the first time in the history of the District Supreme Court that an appellate justice will sit jointly with lower justices in deciding a case.

The unusual situation was created by the questioning of an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission. A special statute requires that such cases be heard by a tribunal of three justices, one of whom must be a circuit judge.

Justice Adkins is now sitting in a lengthy criminal case, but it is expected that he will adjourn that case until the new trial is over.

The case is that of the Claiborne-Annapolis Ferry Co. against the Chesapeake Beach Railway, the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the United States of America. The ferry company is seeking an injunction to prevent the railway company from establishing a ferry. The Commerce Commission held that the road's charter permitted it to build a ferry, and that action is being contested.

Attorneys Peyser, Edelin & Peyser represent the ferry company; Attorneys Olcott, Holmes, Glass, Paul & Havens and J. C. Gibson represent the railway, while Attorneys D. W. Knowlton and Nelson Thomas represent the commission. John Lord O'Brian and Leo A. Rover represent the Government.

Bootleggers Use Less Industrial Alcohol

(Associated Press.)

Diversion of industrial alcohol for bootleg purposes was said yesterday by Dr. James M. Doran, industrial alcohol commissioner, to be less prevalent than in any previous year. This he ascribed to the difficulty and expense involved in redistilling industrial alcohol denatured under improved Government formulas.

"It is easier and cheaper for the bootlegger to get his alcohol in other ways," he said.

Hull Scores Delay In Tariff Revision

125 Years Will Be Required at Present Rate, Says Senator.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Hull said last night substantial lowering of Hawley-Smoot tariff rates would require 125 years at the rate of revision previously employed by the Hoover administration through its flexible tariff powers. The Tennessean, in a statement through the Democratic national committee, said it "is now patent" the President, in conjunction with the Tariff Commission, will not lower rates appreciably, and added:

"The flexible provision instead of 'taking the tariff out of politics' only involved it all the more in politics, especially during the meeting of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the International Chamber of Commerce."

Hull said the flexible provision apparently excites "deep-seated fear among so-called business leaders," and that presumably the two meetings "were possessed of the constant apprehension they might incur the displeasure of the Hoover administration" if a serious discussion of national problems were undertaken.

Death of Official Declared Suicide

Selectman, of Connecticut, Shot Self, Examiner Says After Autopsy.

New Haven, Conn., May 14 (A.P.).—Raymond E. Gilyard, first selectman of Seymour, who was found dead in his office Tuesday morning with a bullet wound in his heart, died from a self-inflicted wound, in the opinion of Medical Examiner M. M. Scarbrough, who held an autopsy on the body.

Coroner J. J. Corrigan at first had entertained the opinion that Gilyard was slain, having based his view upon the fact that Gilyard called a telephone operator and informed her that he had been shot by "one of three Negroes" who had been in his office.

The coroner today said he had no official statement to make. He had, however, ordered the release of five men held at Ansonia.

Efforts were being made today to ascertain the condition of Gilyard's financial affairs.

Tablet Said to Reveal Residence in Ur Bared

Philadelphia, May 14 (A.P.).—Discovery of a tablet which is said to provide the first evidence that the ancient City of Ur of the Chaldees was inhabited as late as 324 B. C., in the reign of Alexander the Great, was announced today by Horace H. F. Jayne, director of the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

The discovery was reported to Jayne in a statement from the joint archeological expedition of the university museum and the British Museum, in a description of the final work by the archeologists at Ur for the season of 1930-31, the expedition's ninth season at the site.

Gang Radio Bribe Attempt Is Bared

Detroit Station Employe Says He Was Offered $100 Weekly.

Detroit, May 14 (A.P.).—Reg Clark, who conducts the children's hour over station WMBC, testified before officials of the Federal Radio Commission today that Norman B. Smith, convicted bootlegger, had once offered him $100 a week if he would broadcast certain tunes at specified times.

This testimony followed reports yesterday that Government investigators had discovered that rumrunners were using certain Detroit radio stations for broadcasting code in the musical programs which directed their operations in the Detroit River.

Clark testified that Smith made the offer at the Kit Cat Club and that Ted Pizzino, one of the owners of the club, and Thomas H. Ragan, then manager of WMBC, were present.

NAVY YARD WORKER KILLED IN MISHAP

Alvin J. Jacobs Is Crushed When Base of Gun Carriage Slips From Crane.

Alvin J. Jacobs, 45 years old, employed at the gun carriage shop in the Navy Yard, was killed instantly yesterday when crushed underneath the base of a gun carriage which slipped from a crane.

Jacobs, who lives at 2870 Perry street northeast, was a crane follower and was engaged in cleaning the bottom of a plate weighing from 4,000 to 6,000 pounds. The plate was suspended by two hooks from a lifting crane.

One of the hooks slipped and the heavy plate fell six feet to the floor, crushing Jacobs beneath it. He was pronounced dead by Dr. G. B. Teloe, of the Navy Medical Corps.

Jacobs was a former service man and served in the Navy as a gunner's mate for sixteen years. Officers at the Navy Yard ordered a board of inquest and a board of investigation formed to investigate the death.

Conference Held On Indian Affairs

Federal Structures Group Is Likely to Gather in London.

Simla, India, May 14 (A.P.).—Viceroy Lord Willingdon, responding to Ramsay MacDonald's request that he terminate the continuing uncertainty in Indian affairs today convened a miniature round-table conference which provisionally agreed upon a date in early November for the convening of the second round-table conference on Indian affairs in London.

It is likely that the federal structures committee will meet in London some time in September, after the parliamentary recess, and several delegates warned the government today that delay in formulating final plans for the London conference would only aggravate the tension in India.

Mahatma Gandhi did not participate in today's meeting because Lord Willingdon wanted to consult him and some of his associates alone tomorrow regarding the Nationalist plans for participation in the conference at London.

PLANS ARE ALTERED FOR FOUR SCHOOLS

Changes Held Necessary to Conform With District Building Code.

Plans for four schools in the 1932 building program were ordered altered in minor details late yesterday by Maj. H. L. Robb, assistant engineer commissioner, following a conference of representatives of the municipal architect's office and the building inspector's office.

The changes are necessary, Maj. Robb said, to bring the designs into conformance with the District building code. The municipal architect's office, while following the spirit of the law, has not strictly adhered to the letter, he explained, and the evasions have been pointed out by the building inspectors, which recently were instructed to check all school construction plans before the contracts are let.

Henceforth, all school plans will be required to conform with all District building code regulations, Maj. Robb said, so that there can be no responsibility on the municipal architect's office for faulty construction.

The four school plans which were checked by the building inspectors are for the Phoebe Hearst and the Burleith-Glover Park Schools and the Janney and Woodridge School additions.

A delay of only a few days will result from the alterations, Maj. Robb said, and there will be no additional expenses involved.

The double-check on school plans was ordered by Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, following the controversy over responsibility for the collapse of the steel framework of the Roosevelt High School.

Among those present at the closed conference were Municipal Architect Albert L. Harris and his assistant, S. B. Walsh; Harold March, structural engineer in the same office; Col. John W. Oehmann, chief building inspector, and a representative of the fire marshal's office.

FIRE ESTIMATES ASK MEN AND EQUIPMENT

Rescue Squad and New Truck Company Sought in 1933 Budget.

Requests for a second complete rescue squad, a new truck company, together with the building and equipment, and provision for an additional battalion chief are included in the 1933 estimates of the Fire Department, Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, revealed yesterday. It is expected that there will be few cuts made in these requests.

The new rescue squad would replace the combination unit now working out of No. 11 engine house, on Fourteenth street, near Kenyon street, northwest. The present unit, known as No. 2 rescue squad, serves the northern section of the city in the vicinity of Mount Pleasant and during fires also aids the engine company.

Provision for $36,940 in salaries to pay a captain, lieutenant, sergeant, and fifteen privates to man the rescue squad is asked. The growing need of a full-time rescue squad for the northern area is set forth by Fire Chief George S. Watson in his recommendations to the District Commissioners.

Site Recently Acquired.

The new truck company, comprising a captain, a lieutenant, a sergeant, and fifteen privates, with salaries totaling $18,470 for six months, is to be located at Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast. The site has recently been acquired under the 1931 appropriation.

An estimate of $93,500 is given for the firehouse, together with its furnishings, furniture and equipment, exclusive of the fire apparatus. The building, which is expected to cost $90,000, will be a combination structure to provide space for an engine company also, though this will not be installed until later.

An extra battalion chief, at a salary of $4,500, is asked to serve in the congested area so that there will be two such chiefs instead of one. At present a captain is in charge when the battalion chief is off duty.

Other Equipment Sought.

Other new equipment asked by the department includes two hook and ladder pieces at $15,500 each, five combination hose wagons at $8,000, one water tower at $22,000, and two pumping engines at $11,000. In this connection it is pointed out that some of the hose wagons now in use have been in service for between 15 and 18 years. The maximum use of such apparatus is ordinarily considered 15 years.

A seven-year program of hose replacement, whereby a portion of the hose will be replaced each year and the entire supply will be replaced over a period of seven years, is also proposed.

The total of the department's estimate is $2,645,020 as compared to an appropriation of $2,583,920 for 1932. Of the new estimate, $2,259,000 is for salaries. A fund of $32,500 is asked for automatic increases in salaries.

CENTER, PARK ITEMS HIT IN BUDGET TALK

tended that the $3,000,000 cash fund was unnecessary, or at least that the $1,300,000 balance, which Auditor Daniel J. Donovan estimates will exist at the end of 1932, will be sufficient and that the item of $1,700,000 requested to make up this total should consequently be eliminated.

A similar view was expressed by Joshua Evans, jr., representing the Board of Trade, while Robert J. Cottrell, secretary of the same organization, and Harry King, of the Chamber of Commerce, took contrary stands.

Charles I. Stengle, of the Citizens Advisory Council, took advantage of the conference to attack the Commissioners for a recent compromise of delinquent tax claims against railroads.

Others who participated in the conference included Mark Lansburgh, president of the Merchant and Manufacturers Association, and E. G. Bliss, of the Chamber of Commerce.

Du Ponts File Suit On Powder Patent

Complaint States Move Aims to Get Testimony on Claims.

Wilmington, Del., May 14 (A.P.).—E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. today filed a bill of complaint in Federal district court, alleging the Western Cartridge Co., although notifying customers of Du Pont that a certain Du Pont powder infringes on the Olin patent, had failed to bring suit against Du Pont "in the hope that witnesses may die or move out of the jurisdiction of the court."

In the bill the Du Pont company asks the court to be permitted to bring before it eighteen men, some of them officials of Du Pont, to testify concerning the manufacture of the powder and their knowledge of the Olin patent, which is owned by Western Cartridge Co. The bill states Du Pont desires the testimony of these men so it can be presented and made use of in the future.

The Du Pont company alleges the Western Cartridge Co. has told the Du Pont customers that the Olin patent, obtained by John M. Olin in 1923, dominates and controls the use of powder involved in the suit.

Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—The will of Walter Ansel Strong, publisher of the Chicago Daily News, disposing of an estate of "not to exceed" $2,500,000 was filed for probate today.

His widow, Mrs. Josephine Haviland Strong, gets one-third of the estate, while the remainder was created as a trust estate for the benefit of Mrs. Strong and the five children.

The will, dated April 26, 1926, conferred discretionary powers on the executors as to disposition of the Daily News, control of which Mr. Strong acquired after the death of Victor Lawson. Executors are free, under the terms of the will, to retain indefinitely as part of the estate the controlling interest in the Daily News. The will suggests, however, that for a period of three months after the testator's death the stock be held available to purchase by any individual or group in the employ of the News; for the next month, available for sale to any stockholder or group of stockholders, and thereafter for sale generally.

UTILITY CONFORMING TO IDEALS IS FOUND

Accountant Says Three-Year Search Discloses Only One Meeting Test.

(Associated Press.)

A Federal Trade Commission accountant said yesterday that after a three-year search he had found a large operating public utility "which conforms to the best ideals of public regulation."

The witness, Judson C. Dickerman, testified he found no inflation in Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., which supplies power to Cleveland and other Ohio communities.

He added its rates were moderate and its security issues were founded on property values and earnings. He praised the company's relations with its employes and said it was prosperous.

Dickerman said the study of the concern "may be valuable in final analysis of the results of this investigation." The comission was directed to examine financial and publicity activities of privately owned utilities by the Senate and its report is expected some time next year. The resolution ordering the inquiry authorized recommendations for changes in statutes affecting utilities.

Since the inquiry began in 1928, bills to place all holding companies under Government regulation have been introduced in Congress and the issue may rise again at the next session.

The Cleveland company is a subsidiary of the North American Co., a holding company comprising one of the largest public utility groups in the country. The North American is one of the few groups which does not charge its subsidiaries management or supervision fees.

The investigation into the affairs of theh North American Co. will be resumed next Tuesday.

Bonus Loans Pass $700,000,000 Mark

Veterans' Official Predicts Advances Soon Will Be $1,000,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

New loans to World War veterans on compensation certificates last week passed the $700,000,000 mark. Virtually abreast of accumulated applications for loans, the veterans' administration said yesterday that by last Saturday a total of $711,132,026 had been turned over to 1,864,754 former soldiers.

On hand at the end of the week were 22,788 pending applications, most of which are expected to be passed on within a few days. However, new requests for loans are still coming in, and officials have not revised their expectation that the outflow of funds will reach close to the billion mark.

The applications had been declining in volume steadily until last week, but then they took a small upward rise.

POPE'S LABOR TALK TO BE HEARD TODAY

Broadcast by Radio Will Be at 11:30 o'Clock This Morning.

Vatican City, May 14 (A.P.).—Arrangements for the radio broadcast of the address of Pope Pius XI tomorrow were completed tonight.

The Pope's address, which will be directed to the 10,000 workers who are here celebrating the anniversary of the labor encyclical, "Rerum Novarum," of Pope Leo XIII, will also be broadcast to most of the civilized world.

The Pope is expected to begin to speak at 5:30 p. m. (11:30 a. m., E. S. T.). He will speak ten minutes in each of three languages, Italian, French and German. The broadcast will be on a wave length of 19.84.

The address will be rebroadcast in the United States and other countries and following upon the Pope's address an English translation and description of the scene will be given by Mgr. Francis Spellman, of Whitman, Mass. Later translations will be broadcast in other languages.

The address will be the climax of a week's observance of Pope Leo XIII's encyclical.

A formal general assembly of the delegation of workers took place this afternoon in the huge courtyard of the papal chancery building. Bishop Edwin B. O'Hara, of Great Falls, Mont., and leaders from other countries addressed the group.

Tomorrow Pope Pius will celebrate a mass in St. Peter's Cathedral and will afterward grant a number of audiences.

Due to a typographical error in The Washington Post of Wednesday morning the word "suppiant" was used instead of "supplement" in two places in a story dealing with the encyclical about to be issued by Pope Pius.

The correct paragraph reads as follows:

"It is believed that the pontiff will supplement the pastoral to the archbishops and bishops of the United States, issued in September, 1919, in which it was declared that labor unions, though necessary, were too militant and should be supplemented by associations composed of both employers and employes, to place an emphasis on common interests rather than divergent aims."

DANGER IN WAGE CUTS.

Organized labor has announced that it will not accept lower wage standards without a struggle. The declaration of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor that wages must be maintained, and its call to both organized and unorganized workers "to resist to the fullest extent any and all attempts to reduce wages and lower the American standard of living" can be interpreted in no other way than as a warning of industrial trouble if the wage-cutting policy is pursued.

Harmonious relationship between capital and labor has done wonders in mitigating the effects of the depression. No other period of economic derangement has ever been so free from strikes and lockouts. A more enlightened understanding of the economic problems confronting both capital and labor has produced a fine spirit of cooperation. When President Hoover called the leaders of business, industry, finance and labor together in the fall of 1929 they mutually agreed that there would be no reduction of wages, no demands for higher pay, and no strikes or other disturbances. The depression would have been infinitely more complicated and distressing had not those agreements been carried out.

Now there is a tendency in some industrial circles to break away from that understanding. Workingmen who have held faithfully to their pledge expect employers to do likewise. If the employers break faith, organized labor will be released from the agreement and will undoubtedly fight back. Workingmen will not accept a lower standard without marshaling their united strength against it. If bankers and others continue to press for lower wages, the recovery of business probably will be prolonged by strikes and by a collapse of the good will now existing between employers and employes.

The workingmen have sound economics on their side. "Every one knows that what we need is a restoration of buying power and the preservation of the American standard of living," says the Federation of Labor. "Apparently, those employers who would attempt to enforce reductions in wages think only in terms of increased production. How they expect to market goods produced when they lessen or destroy the already limited purchasing power of millions of people has not yet been explained."

Failure of purchasing power to keep pace with productive capacity has been proved to be one of the underlying causes of the depression. When labor resists encroachment upon its buying power it has the support of economic law. Thus far workingmen have been content to reason about the problem, but if wage-slashing becomes the rule, labor will no doubt make use of the most effective weapons within its reach. The best interests of the whole country demand that far-sighted business and industrial leaders avert such a calamity.

CRIME'S BIG BILL.

The Governor of Illinois says that organized crime is causing this country a direct loss of $15,000,000,000 every year. He does not explain just how he arrives at that neat round sum, but, bad as conditions are in spots, particularly Illinois spots, the figure seems a bit high. That amount is five times the value of the combined corn and wheat crops of the United States. It is one-sixth of the total income of the Nation. The racketeers would have to steal all the gold and silver mined in a year 200 times to equal that loot. But whatever the cost of crime, it is too much.

Gov. Emmerson is not even satisfied with placing the direct loss from racketeering at $15,000,000,000, which he claims can be closely figured. He insists that in addition no statistician can compute a table giving the ultimate cost, for the indirect effects of crime reach far into the future. Conditions that permit such inroads upon the wealth of society are the product of indifference on the part of the American people.

Gov. Emmerson feels that the day of house cleaning has been long delayed, but believes it is at hand. He says: "Our greatest need of the past two years has been to build public buildings, new roads, new engineering systems to take up the slack and at the same time furnish employment. Our greatest need of the next few years will be the building of citizenship. The Nation has turned the road and will march on to the point where normal development of our resources and industries will maintain a normal life."

The burden for the reform of conditions rests not solely upon the shoulders of executive, legislative and judicial officers, the governor warns, but upon citizens as individuals. Government has become the biggest business in the State and in the Nation, and a vast number of obligations have been placed at the door of the Government. To bestow these powers and then relinquish supervision of the manner in which they are exercised is gambling with human weakness. The citizen must not be too busy to take the interest in public affairs necessary to insure success in government.

PREPARATION MEANS PEACE.

Emergency plans for the mobilization of 4,000,000 men in case of war that are being formulated by the War Policies Commission under the chairmanship of Secretary of War Hurley have been outlined by Gen. MacArthur, chief of staff. The proposals will be submitted to Congress in the hope that statutory authority will be given for prompt executive action in case of necessity.

With some practical modifications these plans embrace the best features developed by the experience of the War Industries Board during the World War, with a much broader system of control of natural resources, industry and labor, putting all these elements, if not upon the actual draft system of man power for the Army itself, at least upon the basis of equitable distribution of the sacrifices entailed, and assuredly to "take the profits out of war."

The policies commission, composed of members of Congress and Cabinet members, has been described briefly as a commission to eliminate war profits. Its purpose carried to natural fruition will do that, but the work may well be described also as "plans to prevent war." It is amazing that any other view can be taken of such purely prudential proposals.

Protests, however, are not lacking. Pacifists characterize these plans for universal service in the national defense as being inherently warlike. Such reasoning belies the history of the Nation, and offers offense to the American spirit and to American efforts throughout the world in behalf of peace.

The temper of the American people would not be one bit changed in its attitude toward war by knowledge of the fact that the country was prepared to act quickly and effectively if attacked. Americans will not suddenly become aggressive, militant imperialists because they know the machinery is ready for the proper formation, equipment and maintenance of an army is at hand. On the contrary, nothing is so conducive to calm and reasoned adjustment of difficulties as the consciousness of strength in man or nation to fight for the right if need be.

The War Policies Commission is doing a useful and very necessary work. If its proposed organization had been ready to function at the time the United States entered the World War it would have saved many months of confusion and delay, many millions of dollars, and an untold number of lives. Moreover, if it had been known that this country was prepared to enter the conflict promptly, with all its energies organized and concentrated, it is readily conceivable that the war might have ended without a single American soldier ever having been sent to France.

DAVID BELASCO.

David Belasco, Nestor of the American theater, is dead. For many years the history of the stage in New York has centered about him as author and producer. Famous plays and famous players by the score are intimately associated with this master manager, who in his seventy-seventh year was still in the active service of the profession to which he had given his whole life with undivided devotion. On his seventy-fifth birthday he scoffed at the idea of retiring. His wish came true that the last curtain would find him upon the stage.

Born in San Francisco, Belasco's youth was spent on the Pacific Coast. Beginning as call boy in the old Baldwin Theater, he rose to be its stage manager and later occupied the same position at the San Francisco Grand Opera House and the Metropolitan Theater before New York called him. His first play, "La Belle Russe," was written in 1879 and produced at Wallack's Theater. He became stage manager of the Madison Square Theater, and later in a similar position for Daniel Frohman at the Old Lyceum Theater, before he embarked upon an independent career.

One of Mr. Belasco's first successes in New York was "May Blossoms," which he produced in 1884. In 1887 he presented E. H. Sothern in "Lord Chumley." Other memorable successes come readily to mind among the older theater goers, such as Mrs. Leslie Carter in "The Heart of Maryland" and "Zaza," John Luther Long and Blanche Bates in "The Darling of the Gods," and David Warfield in "The Music Master."

The list is a long one, coming down to contemporaneous and more sensational productions, not always so generally approved or enjoyed by many admirers of Mr. Belasco's earlier productions. However, his fame as a producer, covering two full generations of actors on the American stage, is secure. His painstaking attention to detail and accuracy in setting and presentation established standards that never have been surpassed, and that will remain his enduring monument.

WHY BRITISH TRADE LAGS.

A great deal is being said about the candid advice which the Prince of Wales gave to British commercial interests in his address at Manchester, following his return from the British trade exposition in Argentina. In brief, the prince told British merchants to emulate America. That, of course, is good advice. But what he seems to have had in mind principally was American selling methods. John Bull will have to take up American ways of boosting his products, the prince thinks, even though they may be vulgar.

From the brief dispatches that came to this country it does not appear that the Prince of Wales hit the bull's-eye, even though his address did contain a remarkable degree of common commercial sense. Britain is, of course, deficient in up-to-date selling methods, but even advertising can't sell goods that do not supply the needs of modern communities. Britain might even cater to modern South American tastes and manufacture cheaper goods without being able to compete with industry in the United States. The underlying reason why Great Britain has been lagging behind in world trade is because her industries are no longer efficient.

This country has not taken trade away from the British in South America. With the exception of the depression year of 1930, British trade with Argentina, where the present campaign is concentrated, has not fallen below its prewar level. But the United States has opened new avenues of trade. Consequently its exports to that country have trebled during that period. Instead of trying to compete directly with the established exports from Europe, this country has devoted its efforts to selling automobiles, electric refrigeration equipment, radios, telephones, motion pictures and hundreds of other modern products. As a result only 14 to 28 per cent of American exports to Argentina enter into competition with those of Great Britain. The United States has been eminently successful in this field because it has sold the people what they want at reasonable prices.

No amount of high-pressure salesmanship can make trade successful unless the exporting nation is equipped to supply what the importing nation demands. British manufacturers are more to blame for the stagnation of British trade than are the merchants. They have retained obsolete machinery. They have failed to alter their output in accordance with current demands. Britain has not encouraged the new industries which have found so much favor in this country.

One great advantage enjoyed by the United States is its tremendous domestic market. American export trade is only the surplus after the vast internal demand has been supplied. Manufacturers here are able to produce on a mass basis and therefore reduce costs and pay higher wages. Salesmanship could not overcome these disadvantages, but enterprise on the part of British manufacturers might go a long way toward restoring British prestige in the world of trade.

Uncle Sam must replace the $300 worth of liquor that was stolen from the Salvadorean Legation. Presumably Col. Woodcock will advertise for bids.

E. O. Hulbert, of the Naval Research Laboratory, thinks the earth is emerging into a warm age, but maybe it's only the approaching campaign.

Thousands of girls are reported to have been sold in Hongkong. That doesn't sound much like depression.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., May 14.—As the returns are published from many concerns employing a large number of wage earners it becomes apparent that the policy announced by leading managers of industry that they would take care of their employes in preference to their stockholders is being observed. When the operations for three months show no profit it is apparent that the receipts have gone to pay the two great items of labor and taxes. The remarkable feature of this result is that there have been so few decreases in the rate of wages in extensive industries.

We have had unemployment on a total and partial scale, but this is the first acute depression of such duration where there has not been a radical reduction of wages. To a greater extent than ever before people have been taken care of and the property of the country has borne the expense and loss. We are not yet organized so that this system works to perfection. That will take time. But the principle has been recognized and become more effective than in any past experience that the wage earners hold a preferred position in time of depression. Those who have made this possible are entitled to a great deal of credit.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

HIDDEN TREASURES

From the Christian Science Monitor.

News stories from Buffalo and Schenectady, N. Y., and from Jugoslavia indicate that, after all, the pot of gold, literally or figuratively, was not at the foot of the rainbow. Mrs. Charles L. Couch, of Buffalo, recently purchased five or six books for 25 cents apiece at a local sale of household effects. Now she finds that one, a copy of Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," is a first edition and is worth about $1,500.

Up in the attic of one of the buildings at Union College, Schenectady, two 3,000-year-old Assyrian reliefs reposed for more than three-quarters of a century. They were gifts to the college in 1853 and have long been considered "white elephants;" recently, however, a New York collector purchased them for $20,000. They had been part of the wainscoting in the palace of a king who ruled more than 800 years B. C.

News of an actual pot of gold comes from Maribor, Jugoslavia. The treasure is believed to have been taken to Jugoslavia by Hannibal in the second Punic war when he knocked at the gates of Rome. Workmen tearing down the building in which the Austrian Admiral Tegetthoff was born found the pot. It was of earthenware and contained several hundred gold pieces of the utmost archeological value. They dated back to the second century B. C.

Speaking of treasures, what a wealth of them might be uncovered if all the attics in every land were examined. Below or among the accumulated dust of the years and back beyond crumpled umbrellas, ancient hats, broken golf sticks and copies of magazines, here and there articles of historic, and perhaps intrinsic, value would surely be found. A Southern historian has recently asked householders to rummage through their attics in the hope of finding correspondence and papers which would throw new light on the history of the South. Undoubtedly many Dixie attics contain priceless material of this sort.

Of course, this does not mean that any attic ever should be cleaned up! What charm would there be in an attic that was not dusty and full of cobwebs to reflect the sun slanting in at the small window peeping out under the eaves? But an hour or two in the attic on the next rainy day would not only take one back on a journey of sentiment to other years, but might reveal literary and historic treasures of the first order.

POST HASTE.

Official notice to spring: No more false alarms—this is straw-hat day.

The Greeks Had a Word for It, but Yale believes a modern version will do.

If Briand goes to Geneva for the league council meeting he will get more action in a month than the French presidency affords in a whole term.

Alfonso hasn't rated very high with us since he ran away at the first sign of trouble, but neither should the new government go haywire, as the diplomats say, over communistic antichurch riots.

The Navy will economize, too, and abandon all its posts and yards not within 500 miles of the sea coast.

The pacifists think Uncle Sam would be safer if he wore an April-fool "Kick me" sign on his coat tails.

Gov. Roosevelt arrived in France just in time to see how easy it is for the favorite presidential candidate to lose out.

The highwaymen and road agents who have attacked Washington this week must be considered misnomers and held up as our most useful boulevardiers.

Admiral Moffett says that surface craft today must be defended against obliteration from aircraft attack through adequate protection by aircraft. Peg up 50 points for aviation.

Reno claims fewer divorces are celebrated there than marriages performed without explaining how come. Complete diagrams are provided, however, to prove there is no racketeering in the gambling.

A District divorce suit discloses that husband slapped friend wife only after she had declared: "I'll entertain who I damn please." Avoiding cavils at home ethics and unradiolike diction, such grammar does require reproof.

Editor Dana's recipe for news was a man biting a dog. The Salvador Legation incident, with a diplomat biting a bandit, nearly measures up.

A Hollywood producer is going to remove a film called "Merry Wives of Reno."

Commissions are no longer an executive luxury. Director Woodcock now has his private research synod and Senator Borah wants a handpicked international commerce congress.

If the Governor of Illinois is right the "earnings" of organized crime are nearly four times as great as the annual income of the Federal Government. But is the governor figuring the whole country on a Chicago basis?

LUCKY DOG.

"Lucky dog!" the tramp remarked
Unto the little fyste which barked
About his feet and wagged his tail,
"For you can neither win nor fail,
Nor feel too bitterly the scorn
Of creatures similarly born.
No one expects from you a deed
Above the instinct of your breed
Or thinks a code of laws to write
To regulate your appetite.
You eat and sleep whene'er you choose
And alcohol you never use."

The little dog in turn replied:
"The room is small where I abide,
And I've but narrow space to move.
My fortunes I can not improve.
I am forever bound to be
What birth and instinct made of me.
I can not laugh, I can not sing,
I can not do one useful thing.
The kindliest priest or pedagogue
Could ever make me more than dog.
Not so with you, when life began
You had the chance to be a man!"

Rights Are Fixed by Justice, Not by Comparisons or Expectations.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

IN old settled communities, where nobody is very rich and nobody very poor, property is handed down from generation to generation and is valued more highly than money.

Sons and daughters who have married and left home plan their futures in expectation of inheriting certain houses or parcels of land, and often the reading of a will causes heart-ache, resentment and the bitterness of disappointment.

Old people who possess both property and children regard the making of a will as second in importance only to making their peace with God.

Their property represents years of self-denial, and they surrender it reluctantly. Their wills are an effort to control it from the grave.

Sometimes the effort fails, for dissatisfied heirs can waste an estate in a struggle to obtain the portion they covet.

To prevent this, old people may take counsel of faith and deed their property outright when they think death is near.

It is a practice that invites regret, for children who have their inheritance soon learn to think of it as something rightfully theirs, for which no gratitude is due, and regard as burdens the old people from whom no more can be expected.

Whether the property is divided by deed or by will, no human ingenuity can make a division that will seem fair to all beneficiaries.

Unmarried daughters think the married ones deserve less because their future is secure; sons think they deserve more because their labor helped build the estate; the widow thinks she deserves more because she is old and the children can care for themselves.

The confusion results from the fact that all persons concerned think in terms of greed instead of simple justice.

A wife who helped build an estate deserves half of it. Her claim is that of an equal partner. If she is a second wife, married after the estate was built, she still deserves a half as reward for serving as nurse and companion in a home deserted by all others.

If there are minor children to care for, the wife and mother deserves control of all the estate until they reach their majority.

Above all else, the wife deserves the home so long as she lives.

As for the adult children, they had their board, clothing and education until they were ready to leave home. They have no just claim to more.

Anything they get is a gift, and those who receive gifts have no right not granted by the giver.

What Hoover Will Face.

Sherburn (Minn.) Advance-Standard.

Everything is shaping up nicely for making Hoover the goat in the next presidential campaign. Not only have the politicians, but also the element run contrary to the President's best interests. Hoover will be nominated, and he will very likely be reelected, but he will have to face multiplied attacks from multiplied sources. He will be blamed for the drouths, the floods and all of the other untoward weather conditions which have occurred during his first term. Moreover, he will be charged with having caused millions of men to be minus employment. A good many things have transpired during the President's regime which have been entirely outside his jurisdiction and over which he has no control, but the Democratic brethren may be expected to brush aside these facts with reckless abandon. But one thing they won't be able to charge against Hoover and that is that he never allowed Schall to make him eat oats out of Tom's political hog trough.

Frank Roosevelt's Novels.

Christian Science Monitor.

Perhaps many who are uncertain about Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's attitude toward the Democratic nomination for the Presidency in 1932 will attach more than casual significance to the fact that when he boarded a liner for Europe the other day several volumes of "Messages of the Presidents" were among the books he planned to read during the passage.

And Unreliable.

Indianapolis Star.

Saving during the next fiscal year hinges on Congress, says Mr. Hoover. And those hinges are decidedly rusty.

Shouse Dodges.

Brooklyn Citizen (Dem.).

Mr. Jouett Shouse, executive director of the Democratic national committee, addressing the Democrats of Texas, said that the business depression was the paramount issue of the next presidential campaign and prohibition was secondary.

Mr. Shouse soft-pedaled on the prohibition issue to please his audience. Texas Democrats are officially "dry," and Mr. Shouse feared to tread on their corns by featuring the prohibition issue.

This sort of political pussy-footing is not going to help the Democratic party in the States which are needed to elect a Democratic President. There will be no "depression issue" in case business revives before the next presidential election. But, even if it does not revive, there is no necessity of accentuating the issue, as it will take care of itself.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Northern Democrat Pays His Respects to Texas "Hoovercrat" Who Wants McAdoo.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: A Hoovercrat, ready to do another flop, writes you from the Texas "sticks" that his delegation is going to nominate McAdoo. He doesn't like the northern Democrats, he is bitter against the Democratic national chairman, he has that typical rube complex against Wall street, and he wants to sign the southern Democracy up with the western Progressives.

Having voted the straight Democratic ticket from birth, unbiased insofar as creed is concerned, and willing to accord justice where it is due, I suggest that the Democratic party is better off without the Texan ilk. Born to political poverty, nurtured on prejudice, and thriving because of political pap, the Democratic party in the South is certainly in bad shape. Not as bad perhaps as when Tammany Hall raised the money to bail its president out of the Federal jail, and protect it when it was being scourged from pillar to post, but nevertheless honeycombed with hill billies and lunkheads that will always keep it in an unfavorable light insofar as intelligent Americans are concerned. There is quite a bit of difference between Northern Republicans and Northern Democrats, but not one-tenth as much difference as there exists between the political beliefs of a Massachusetts and Texan Democrat.

We Northern Democrats commend Mr. Raskob for the work he has done, and is doing, in putting the Democratic party on its present plane. We realize that he has taken it off a corn pone and hominy diet and elevated it to a position of financial security, so that it is prepared to be a formidable contender in the 1932 race. We glory in the organization he has put into it. Because he has come to be a naturalized citizen and a person of different creed from the average native-born American makes no difference to us, because there are too many of these so-called Americans, who feel the country belongs to them because their grandpappies emigrated from England years and years ago.

We find no criticism in Mr. Raskob's view on the liquor question, although many of us are temperate in the real sense of the word. We do see lots of gall in these so-called leaders of the South trying to make a Prohibition party out of the Democratic party. The Democratic party of the North is not, and never was "bone dry," and you Southerners better make up your mind to the fact that we do not intend to support such an issue. You talk about signing up with the Progressive party of the West, but you have overlooked the fact that Norris, La Follette and others of the most prominent Progressives are not Prohibitionists.

Suggests Homes for Widowed and Lonely Mothers — Give Them Flowers While They Are Alive.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As the celebration of Mother's Day is kept with so much sincere reverence and affection, I feel I must write of the women yet alive who need consideration quite as much as those who have passed. It is the widow whose children have persuaded her to sell her home and come to live with the family in a small apartment, where conditions are so different that she is more lonely than ever, who needs consideration.

In some cases the price paid for the home has gone into an auto in which there is often no room for her, and she is left with the care of irreverent, undisciplined children for many days together. Many times I have had young mothers tell me how comfortable it was to have mother at home with the children. But what about mother and the many other widows with no children?

Our church homes are crowded and have long waiting lists. Our Government is spending great sums of money for parks, monuments and inanimate things. Inexpensive homes could be built that would house these lonely, disheartened old women, and with a small old people's pension they could be fed.

As I visit cities throughout our land, I find many large old homes closed, sometimes for years at a time, and which will probably never be opened again during this generation because of sad memories. These could be used to such great advantage. We are supplying such comfortable homes for soldiers, and many other benevolent institutions, why not give joy and happiness to the living mothers? These places could be maintained at small cost. Give them their flowers while they are living. If any readers of this letter are in sympathy with this enterprise I would be gratified to hear from them.

Time for a Parents' Disarmament Conference When Babies Are Shot by Weapons Left Lying Loose.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This Post headline caught my eye: "Child Shoots Self With Father's Gun." The child, a 3-year-old, found the gun under the pillow where the father kept it at night.

Very likely there are thousands of pistols bought by citizens who, the chances are ten thousand to one, will never have need to use them and who couldn't use them effectively if they tried.

It would be interesting to know how many pistols are concealed under pillows, in desks, in pockets, not to mention bureau drawers and elsewhere, in a city the size of Washington. We read too many accounts of children injuring themselves or others with household firearms. I wonder whether it is not about time to call a parents' disarmament conference.

Group to Discuss Medical Aid Cost

Committee to Convene at Mayflower Hotel for Two-Day Session.

The Committee on the Costs of Medical Care will open discussion of the economic aspects of the prevention and care of sickness, at a two-day session beginning at the Mayflower Hotel tomorrow.

Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior and chairman of the committee, will preside at the meetings.

At the meeting today the group will take up various proposals which appear to point the way toward the provision of more adequate medical service, preventative and curative, at a cost within the means of the people.

Briton Sees No Wrong In Speakeasies of U. S.

London, May 14 (A.P.).—When in New York, says the Earl of Beauchamp, chancellor of the University of London, do as the English do in London.

"It's perfectly true I went to a speakeasy several times," he said today in reference to his recent trip to the American city. "I saw nothing wrong in it. I was doing what every self-respecting Englishman who likes to drink now and again was doing every day."

The same admission by the earl in an address at a commencement dinner of the university the other evening has caused a flutter of comment in conservative circles.

Cornell May Drop Military Training

Faculty Favors Terminating Compulsory Drill by Vote of 81 to 38.

Ithaca, N. Y., May 14 (A.P.).—The faculty of Cornell University today announced it had voted 81 to 38 in favor of discontinuing compulsory military training.

The resolution, adopted yesterday, will go to the board of trustees for action in June. Military drill would be made elective, under the resolution.

Coincident with the announcement, the Tompkins County Ministerial Association announced a resolution to the same effect, saying "compulsory military training in our universities is undesirable."

Royal Sendoff Given in Paris To Capt. Steele

Naval Attache Will Sail to Take on New Duties in America.

DISPATCHES from overseas bring news of the royal send-off given to the popular Capt. George W. Steele, jr., retiring naval attache at the American Embassy in Paris, who will sail tomorrow on the Leviathan for this country preparatory to assuming his new duties as commander of aircraft in the Atlantic fleet.

His brother members of the American Club of Paris gathered together for luncheon when the distinguished guest of honor was presented the diploma and life membership plaque of the International League of Aviators by Mr. Clifford B. Harmon, president of the organization.

Present at the farewell party were several members of the staff at the American Embassy, including Mr. Norman Armour, counsellor; Mr. Robert M. Scotten and Mr. Harold L. Williamson, secretaries, and Mr. D. J. Reagan, acting commercial attache.

It will be remembered that Capt. Steele was aboard the German dirigible ZR-3 on its flight to the United States six years ago, and afterward commanded the giant ship as the Los Angeles. For two years, Capt. Steele, as naval attache in Paris, has enjoyed increasing popularity, which has been shared equally by Mrs. Steele, who is noted for her charm as a hostess.

Although Washington has seen little of the Steeles since their marriage, both are favorites here. Mrs. Steele, as Mrs. Wilfred DuPuy, made her home here for several years, and Capt. Steele was on duty here before going to Lakehurst, N. J., where he was in command of the naval air station. While there he married Mrs. DuPuy and they went to Paris shortly after the wedding.

In the receiving line with Mrs. Mock will be Mrs. Virginia White Speel, Mrs. Frank Mondell, Miss Janet Richards, Mrs. Paul Linebarger, Mrs. John Bennett, Mrs. Lulu T. Andrews and Mrs. E. C. Vandenburg Some of the hostesses at the bridge tables are Mrs. Francis T. A. Junkin, Mrs. Frank R. Curtis, Mrs. Wallace H. White, Mrs. Earl Venable, Mrs Henry O'Malley, Mrs. J. Physical Education Body Will Organize in Capital

Women teachers of physical education in the District will meet at 8 o'clock tonight in Corcoran Hall, George Washington University, for the purpose of organizing a permanent physical education association.

Plans for the meeting were announced yesterday by Ruth H. Atwell, director of physical education for women at George Washington.

Morrow Rumor Denied by Pastor

Cleric Declares He Is Not Engaged to Daughter of Senator.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—The persistent report that Miss Elisabeth Morrow, eldest daughter of United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, and the Rev. Clyde H. Roddy, of North Arlington, N. J., are engaged, was given point-blank denial by the Presbyterian pastor today.

No member of the Morrow family at Englewood would discuss the report. A woman, who declined to say who she was, answered inquiries by saying she had been instructed to deny that any engagement existed.

From Baton Rouge, La., however, came dispatches quoting the minister's sister, Miss Myrtice Roddy, as saying Miss Morrow and her brother were engaged. Miss Roddy said she had been informed of the engagement by letter from her brother. When told later her brother had denied the engagement, Miss Roddy said she must have misunderstood. She explained that when she told of the engagement she was under the impression an official announcement had been made from the Morrow home.

National Players Are Guests.

Members of the stock company playing at the National Theater were the guests of the Reciprocity Club of America, Washington section, at a dinner meeting last night in the Mayflower Hotel. Arthur C. Smith is president of the group, one of the city's newest service clubs.

YOUR NAME

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Flynn" (also written "Flinn," "O'Flynn," etc.) is of Celtic origin. Its source is the Irish "O Floinn," which means the "descendant of Flann." The personal name "Flann" means "red," and was originally given as a nickname to persons with red complexions or red hair. Old Irish records mention a man called "Flann of the Monastery," who became famous as a poet and teacher in the eleventh century. A common Irish variation of "O Floinn" is "O Loinn." In adopting what they believed to be the English equivalents of their Irish names some families who were originally called "O Loinn" have changed that name to "Lind," "Lynn," "Linn," and even "Lindsey."

The family name "Loveless" is popularly described as being derived from "love-lass" and as being a nickname for persons who became conspicuous in their courtships. According to another popular explanation "lovelace" is to be taken literally as a nickname for persons who loved and made use of lace in their garments. There is no proof whatsoever of the above popular explanations. Old documents give adequate evidence that "Lovelace" is merely a variation of "Loveless." The most important male character in Richardson's novel called "Clarissa Harlowe" is named "Lovelace." Because of the habits of that character the name "Lovelace" is sometimes used as a synonym for a libertine. However, this derived meaning is of such late origin that it can not be considered as a possible meaning of the family name.

The family name "Loveless" is of English origin. It is to be taken literally as a nickname meaning "without love," "unloving" or "unlovely." This name appears to be first recorded in the Hundred Rolls (1273). That important document includes the names of Albricus Loveles and Sarra Loveles.

Dare Interprets the Mode

New York, May 14.

YOU'LL just have to resign yourself to leaving at home your week's correspondence, pencil, address book and all the other oddments and what-nots so many lovely ladies simply feel lost without. All you're permitted to carry in your smart new bag are hanky, only the absolute essentials of beauty repair and cigarette case and briquet, if you must. Not that the new bags are any tiny affairs. No, they're medium sized, but there's a hard-and-fast law which must be obeyed, to-wit, or i. e., "A chic purse never bulges!" And really the smartness of this season's bags depends on their retaining a slim, flat appearance. Even traveling bags are made to achieve the maximum of room with the minimum of bulkiness.

The smartest bags are of leather. The business of having your bag made of the same material as your tweed suit is rather passe. Fabric bags for daytime use do occur occasionally, however. But the safest and the least apt to get worn looking long before they're prime are those in pin seal, lizard, calf or alligator.

The color of your bag depends on your costume, of course. But beware of having your bag and all your other accessories of the same color. For even if the color of your accessories contrasts with the color of your costume, that so-important air of casual elegance is lost when all your accessories are of the same color. Much better to have your purse and shoes of the same color or your purse and gloves and let your hat and scarf contrast with them. There are bag and glove or bag and shoe ensembles which are awfully smart.

And then there are the very new perfectly round satin afternoon bags with carnelian or jade clasps or the crepe de chine ones tucked or with fine side pleatings. And, by the way, though the envelope form is still with us, your bag can once more dangle from your arm by means of a handle of metal links or composition beads.

• • • •

The eye can't always believe what it sees—and one of the very best examples of this is the Tollmann summer ensemble which I sketch for you today! That interesting skirt arrangement that looks like some loose pleats gracefully tied isn't this at all—it is a flat incrustation of the pleated material! The whole is made of heavy turquoise crepe marocain. The collar of the three-quarter length jacquet forms a loose scarf with pleated ends.

More conservative in color, but with just as much chic and individuality in line is Tollmann's street ensemble. It is of crepe flamenga, beige and brown, with just mar-velous incrustations in the way of skirt pleats and diagonally slanting bodice!! And isn't the sleeve interesting with its three tricky cuffs?

• • • •

"To be truly smart, the clever woman of today will choose a street coat severely tailored and of two contrasting shades of the same material." I was told this by one of the most prominent couturiers of Paris—one who specializes in just such coats! 'N' that gave me the very idea I wanted for this week's leaflet—even after I designed just such a coat I wasn't satisfied, but designed just the right kind of scarf and beret to wear with it. Better hurry and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this illustrated leaflet, and prove to yourself that it's both easy and economical to have a stunning street outfit this year!

Summer hats for all parts of the day will interest you, we know. So look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in the Sunday Washington Post.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

THE FRYING PAN AND THE FIRE.

IF Patty who wrote us of her intention to divorce her new husband and marry his rival persists in her resolve after reading this letter offered below, she is braver than we would be under the circumstances. Truly these headlong souls who dash in and out of marriage as if being chased have India rubber nerves.

Patty, if you recall, bases her claim to freedom on the fact that her husband insists upon removing his collar when he comes home at night. Not having a doghouse in which to put him, Patty did the next best thing in her opinion and made him eat alone. This after two months of marriage. Now their relations are just what one would expect and Patty wants to be rid of him and marry the other boy who loved her before the wedding bells rang out. The one complication in Patty's case is that collar or no collar Patty confesses that "she forgets everything when he kisses her"—which augurs ill for the success of Patty's divorce and marriage number two.

And now comes another girl who flouted this column's advice, divorced her husband, and now advises Patty Read and wonder.

Dear Frances McDonald: Here's one for Patty. Not more than three months ago I asked your advice and then did as I pleased. I had "married the wrong man." Ha! It makes me laugh. I got a divorce. Then went through the most horrible loneliness, worrying about that "wrong" man, as to where he was and whom he was with. But I felt I was doing "the best thing," as friends and family counseled and nearly forced me. My mind having been made up, nothing could have stopped me, I guess. Well, no one can be as lonely and sad as the "divorcee." Girls aren't the right company, men make one tired and put one in a questionable position and the other married couples have partners and other interests. So I said I'll marry this other man who has waited six years for me. He is the one who really loves me, I did. Six days later I said "good-by" and started back to that horrid "wrong man." He thought I was crazy to do such a terrible thing. I thought so, too. But—hadn't all my friends coaxed me to marry the college man who was "somebody?"

My people convinced me that I had gotten the "wrong man." Hadn't I married the "right man" and found his kisses sickening, his college conventions smothering and his every move compared to the "wrong man" exasperating. I respect him very, very much. I am sorry for what I've done, probably ruined his life. I'll always have bitter regrets for breaking him, as I probably have done. But now I'm back with the "wrong man." He gets cross when he thinks of what I've done. It takes all the tact my muddled brain can command, but do you know we are happy together? I don't care if you laugh at me, laugh real loud! My parents have been disgraced, they say. They won't ever want to see me, I guess. I don't blame anyone. But there are new friends to make, that will help. So Patty, go away for a week or so. In getting readjusted, don't make a fool out of yourself as I have. You may lose forever. I am very beautiful, educated and have a very good personality or I'd have lost forever. Our 2-year-old baby is happy too now. When you and your "wrong man" have accustomed yourselves to each other, suffered, hated, loved, played, planned together, you'll grow together.

Get interested in making good eats for him. It's fun, and its so much fun to see these hungry men gobble. Put humor into those awful things. We caught baby feeding herself and cat with a fork and couldn't spank her for laughing. You don't have the baby yet, but that longing will strike you all at once some day when you see a particularly sweet one. They're lots of worry, but wonderful. We acted terrible toward each other, too, at first. I knew. Don't tell anyone another word from now on. That was my mistake, too—broadcasting to mama. Sympathizers are poison. Talk to some older and sensible person who has suffered things in life. That's our real source of golden happiness. You won't be happy separated. I too, at one time, was above washing dishes. I like it now, but the cost has been so great.

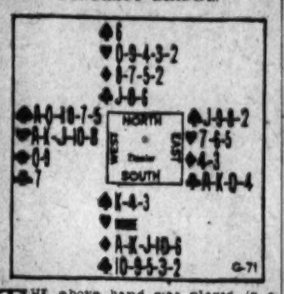
Experience is a treacherous teacher. No method is too severe for her. I'd sort of like to know you—maybe I do—who knows. A READER.

Marie and Ileana Visit Italy.

Venice, Italy, May 14 (A.P.).—Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania and Princess Ileana, recently betrothed to Archduke Anton of Austria, arrived from Monte Carlo today for a few days visit.

WORK ON BRIDGE

CONTRACT BRIDGE.



THE above hand was played in a game of Duplicate Contract, and most of the tables failed to make game with East and West holdings. At all the tables South opened with a bid of one Diamond and most of the Wests lured by the 100 honors, bid two or three Hearts. When that happened, North passed, and East, with the Ace-King-Queen of Clubs and normal support for Hearts, unhesitatingly jumped the partner's suit to four. It will be noticed that North and South, with Hearts the trump, would have no difficulty in saving game by winning two Diamond tricks and two Hearts.

Game was in the hand if West had realized that Spades might be a more advantageous trump, in spite of the four honors in Hearts. To start on a fishing epedition, West should have doubled South's Diamond. If East should answer with two Clubs (as West might well expect), West would bid two Hearts to give East a choice between Spades and Hearts, as the Heart bid under such circumstances would show clearly that West's strength was in those two suits. Of course, an East response with either Hearts or Spades would be entirely satisfactory to West.

Only three Wests doubled. At one of those tables East answered with two Clubs, West bid two Hearts, East three Hearts, and West four; so the bidding there went wrong also.

Another East caught the real significance of the double coupled with the Heart bid on the second round, and knew that West did not want to play at Diamonds, Clubs or No Trump he understood that his choice was between Hearts and Spades and showed his preference for Spades by bidding that suit on the second round. Game in Spades resulted.

Perhaps the most scientific bidding by East was shown at the remaining table where East called one Spade in response to West's double, realizing that an informatory doubler always welcomes a major answer. East's strong Clubs seemed to preclude the possibility that West wanted to play with that suit the trump, so East on the first round showed his four Spades by bidding one Spade and of course a game in that suit was the outcome.

THE DECORATIVE VALUE OF A TRELLIS

HAVE you ever thought about the decorative value of trellises? They have been growing in popularity the last few years and architects are more and more realizing their charm. They are lovely when attached to the side walls of a low, white stucco house, or even a white clapboard one.

A trellis is well placed when attached to the wall on either side of a colonial doorway. Here it forms a parallel line with the glass side panels of the door, and is a reproduction of a decoration that was very popular, especially in the South, in the days just previous to the Civil War. We often see remnants of these lovely old trellises, occasionally in good condition, in the beautiful and stately gardens of Charleston, N. C., covered with the lovely Marshall Neal roses.

To attain their full beauty, trellises must stand on the southern or eastern side of the house. There is only one use to which we can put a trellis on a northern or western exposure, and that is to make it support an English ivy, which loves such an exposure and is about the only vine that will endure severe winds. On the other hand, when our trellis faces the south or east, we can adorn it with either flowering vines or ivy.

The trellis is also beautiful when used as a support for one of the worthwhile varieties of rambler roses. A pink daily that clambers up a trellis and peeps into our second story window is wonderfully appealing. We have been overlooking this old-fashioned daily rose of late and it seems a pity.

However, we do not have to confine our choice to roses when we are selecting a vine or plant to adorn our trellis. The common honeysuckle is always at its best when grown on a trellis. The coral variety is most attractive when trained against a white wall.

The clematis, either the purple or red jackmani type, is at its best in June, and the clematis paniculata is just the thing for later in the season. The latter is both showy and fragrant and is very colorful when in blossom.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is supplied.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 15 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6:15 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 8 a. m. to 9:45 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:50 p. m.

There will be experienced on May 15, according to the astrological indications, some unexpected disappointments, which will wear a worse aspect that their significance deserves. On the other hand, the other side of the picture reveals beneficial results, as out of what appears to be evil, good will come.

A child born on May 15, will develop a character of extremes: it will love passionately and hate bitterly: it will play with abandon and work with zeal. Moderation will not figure in its "make up." Its success or failure will depend on its ability to avoid incurring needless enmities.

Born on May 15, your character is a very likeable one. You are considerate of others, very unselfish, gentle in your ways, and sympathetic. You are not sufficiently aggressive to become a "big noise." In your own quiet way, inoffensive and effective, you will accomplish much. Whether you will reap the reward of your work, depends on its character, and whether others are willing to extend you that recognition that your efforts merit. If you should be fleched of the prizes that you deserve, it will be because of your hesitancy in "staking out your claim."

You do not care to "stay put," and seek frequent change of environment and position. When you feel your efforts are unappreciated, you always fail to stress or even mention this point, and change to some other field of endeavor. In this way, you often cut off your nose to spite your face. You are a great reader, especially of good fiction and biography. Although a fluent talker, your arguments—if they can be called such—do not carry with them the "punch" necessary to force conviction. You are rather susceptible to flattery—more so than is good for you. Your home life promises to be replete with happiness.

The Post will pay to the $1,000 grand prize winner at the end.

"I greatly appreciate the decision of the judges and wish to thank The Post as well as the National Pale Dry Ginger Ale Co. and all others connected with the contest. Then notice its pale color tinged with a slight touch of gold that reflects and transforms its purity before your eyes. Drink heartily of this healthful liquid, noticing at once that your thirst is fully quenched by its cooling touch and that its sparkling ginger now seems to have become a part of yourself. Mrs. Cassidy was also a winner. Her winning ad was written about Underwood & Underwood. Mrs. Cassidy says that she has been writing many ads each day since the contest started. She finds it very fascinating and easy. The idea for this particular ad she said had been lurking in her mind for several days. She got busy, wrote it down on paper and submitted it and won a prize.

She wrote the following ad:

CUT ONE OF HER GOLDEN RINGLETS.
SAVE ONE OF HER TINY SHOES.
BUT ONLY A PICTURE CAN BRING BABY OUT OF THE PAST.

When you have a picture taken of your baby you want a true portrait—one that has caught her in action. A picture so like life that you can see the dimples go and come. That is the kind of picture Underwood & Underwood make with their quicker-than-lightening Beidler-Viken camera. It costs no more to have the best, and it will mean so much in later years.

Submitted by Mrs. C. M. Cassidy, 5111 Forty-fifth street northwest, Washington, D. C. Cleveland 4650-R.

Grover Everett, Eastern High School student, won a prize by writing about the Washington Building. This 18-year-old student spent a half hour perfecting his idea on paper. He has submitted many ads about 30 of the participating concerns and expect to write many more on the remaining five, then start all over again. "I am going to win that $1,000 grand prize if I possibly can. It sure is worth putting forth every effort to win," he says.

He wrote this ad:

Another elated prize winner was Mr. Albertson. He says that he has found real enjoyment writing ads in this contest. He has written ads about each of the concerns each night after work.

"I read The Daily and Sunday Post and watch for those daily suggestions about different firms because I do not have an opportunity to visit them, and I find that column very helpful to me in writing ads," he said. He has not been in the city long and finds that writing ads about these concerns makes it possible to familiarize himself with their products and learn what wonderful values these stores have. "I have enjoyed every minute of this ad-writing period and am looking forward to winning that $100 first prize in the sixth week," he adds.

His ad follows:

When work is a burden,
You're worried and blue.
Nerves at a tension—
What should you do?
For perfect contentment,
Real joy, rest and bliss—
A show at the Earle
And you'll not go amiss.
Convenient location,
Moderate in price,
A show will convince you,
You'll want to go twice.
Father, Mother, Sister or Girl,
A joy is in store for all at the Earle,
Come for yourself and then you will see,
What the Earle has to offer
At Thirteenth and E.

Another who shared in the five big prizes was Mr. Whipp. He is a physical director at the Racket Club and wrote his prize-winning ad on the Home Laundry at 12 o'clock at night after fifteen hours of work. Last week was the first Mr. Whipp participated in this contest. He has not been able to spend a great deal of time writing ads, but now he is going to write some real ones, he says, and win that grand award of $1,000.

He wrote this ad:

The Home Laundry is as indispensable to Mother as Mother is to the home.

"The laundry that took blue Monday off the calendar."

Submitted by William R. Whipp, Apartment 404, North Maryland Courts, Ninth and E streets northeast, Washington, D. C.

The ad written by Camille Von Heiderhoff, 1819 G street northwest, apartment 413, on the Fairfax Farms Dairy, Inc., was selected as the first in honorable mention, next to the prize winners.

Her ad follows:

WHAT WOULDN'T YOU DO FOR YOUR BABY?

That innocent, smiling bit of humanity that is flesh of your flesh—

Those baby eyes that look upon you with adoring trust.

There isn't much you wouldn't do, is there?

And Yet

Fairfax Farms Dairy, Inc., has a special Hi-Test Milk from Jersey cows that is just the thing for your children. Jerseys, known and bred for the richness of their milk, furnish this creamy hi-test milk, every drop of carbohydrates, protein, fats and the essential vitamines—all so necessary for the proper growth and development of Your Baby.

The second ad which the judges selected to receive honorable mention was written by May Stuart Sullivan, 230 Wootton avenue, Chevy Chase, on the Associated Bakery Unions.

Her ad was as follows:

Union-Made Bread.
Associated Bakery Unions.
Song of the Housewives.

Three cheers for the Union Bakers,
Three cheers for the bread they bake,
Three cheers for the fancy pastries
And the "special" line of cake.

They bake them in the morning,
They bake them in the day,
They bake them in the night time,
In a SANINTARY way.

Three cheers for the Union Bakers,
Three cheers for the bread we buy
From any neighboring grocer,
Graham, wheat or rye.

They rush it from the ovens,
Wrapped and labeled, too,
All hot and fresh and wholesome,
Made for me and you.

Three cheers for the Union Bakers,
Three cheers for bread JUST RIGHT—
No more home baking failures,
No more making bread at night.

Union Bread is purest,
And for our stomachs' sake,
Let's eat daily more and more
Of Union-Made Bread and Cake.

FIRE'S OUT . .

HOUSE is cold . . . wood to chop . . . pipes are cold, frozen no doubt. Does this picture bring back "fond" memories of the winter just past? Does it depict you next winter, tending furnace, losing your temper because the fire's gone out? If it does you should investigate Automatic Gas Heat.

You are probably sick and tired of hearing about your furnace, with its dust, dirt, ashes and unsightly ash cans. You no doubt want to look forward to summer—a season free from furnace cares—and don't ever want to see another coal shovel. But wouldn't you rather think of this unpleasant problem now and correct it, than put up with it another winter?

Automatic Gas Heat can be installed in a single day—at your convenience. It will rid you forever of furnace tending—at a cost surprisingly low. And hereafter you can 'fire your furnace from your easy chair."

The new low rate for house-heating comes out at approximately 75 cents per thousand cubic feet as compared with the old rate of $1. Ten per cent down and not another cent until next September will put Automatic Gas Heat in your home now. Phone our Household Department, NAtional 8280, for a careful estimate of the cost for your particular home. There's no obligation.

Gov. Pollard of Virginia is expected to visit Mount Vernon during the convention next week. He is an ex-officio member of the board of visitors of Mount Vernon.

Three Score and Ten Club Studies By-Laws

A constitution and by-laws for the recently organized Three Score and Ten Club yesterday was discussed at a meeting of members, all 60 years old and over, at the Young Men's Christian Association Building.

Mrs. Maude Copley Fudge was appointed in charge of publicity. Despite the "three score and ten" restriction, Mrs. Copley said the membership is open to all over 60 "who refused to admit the limitation of advancing years, and who aspire to keep young and progressive."

Man Slain, Woman Shot By Youth on Ohio Farm

New Lexington, Ohio, May 14 (A. P.).—William Tardier, 50, Columbus, was shot and killed instantly, and Mrs. Pauline Crosson, 60, probably fatally wounded today by Gerald Miller, 22, a step-grandson of Mrs. Crosson. The shooting took place on a farm near here.

Miller was released from the Columbus State Hospital last November. After the shooting Miller went home and told his mother, Mrs. Lillian Pugh, what he had done. She took the boy to Somerset, where she turned him over to officials awaiting the arrival of the sheriff.

Man Lured in Building Is Robbed of His Cash

Earl Silvey, of 1307 Twelfth street northwest, was robbed of $9 yesterday by two unarmed bandits on the third floor of the Evening Star Building. Silvey said he was approached by a man at Thirteenth and E streets northwest, who told him that someone wanted to see him on the third floor of the Evening Star Building.

Silvey went with the man and on the third floor they met a third man. The two strangers robbed him of $9 and fled. No weapons were used. This is the second robbery of a similar nature in two weeks.

Daughter of Sports Writer Seeks Divorce

Reno, Nev., May 14 (A.P.).—Florence R. Smith, daughter of Grantland Rice, sports writer, filed suit for divorce here today against Sydney A. Smith, New York broker, alleging mental cruelty. While the specific allegations are not set forth, the cause of action is simply a case of incompatibility, it was said by Mrs. Smith's attorney.

They married in New York June 12, 1930, and separated last October. Mrs. Smith was first married to David Page, but this was annulled.

HOW IT BEGAN

By Russ Murphy and Roy Sermabeg

How Butter Began
LEGEND SAYS THAT BUTTER WAS ACCIDENTALLY DISCOVERED BY ARABIAN HORSEMEN GALLOPING ACROSS THE PLAINS CARRYING GOATSKINS FILLED WITH SOUR MILK. THE JOGGING OF THE HORSES CHURNED THE CONTENTS OF THE GOATSKINS INTO BUTTER.
Law Of The Medes And Persians

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

DR. JOHN S. COULTER talked to the 1930 meeting of the American College of Surgeons on the subject of fractures of both bones of the lower leg, giving them some advice which lay people should have. His advice, in the main, was good regardless of what bones were broken.

He said he always gave a mimeographed sheet of instructions for home care and self help to every person in his care with a fracture. The patient with a fracture should ask his surgeon for a similar sheet of instructions.

He laid down three principles of treatment of lower leg fractures: Early reduction, proper retention and early function. The patient is particularly interested in the third. If the results are to be staisfactory the fractured limb must not be kept out of commission long.

The detailed advice in this talk related to the use of heat, gentle massage, strong massage, static exercise, passive exercise, exercise through use, and occupational therapy. The application of heat should be begun the first day after the fracture. It should be applied for one hour at a time at least three times a day. There are many types of apparatus for applying heat locally and if no other is available something can be rigged up in the home.

Gentle massage, that is, light rubbing of the skin above and below the fracture, should be begun the day after the fracture. It should be slow, rhythmical and always in one direction. It can be done by the patient or some member of his family. Later in the treatment it is sometimes advisable to split the cast so that the top half can be removed to permit daily light massage not far from the fracture.

Heavy massage is not begun until later in the treatment and it should be done by a person of some experience and training. Static exercise consists in contracting the muscles of the leg without bending a joint. Soon after a fracture the nearby muscles cramp very easily. One object of splinting is to prevent these cramping muscles from pulling the set bones out of place.

But after a day or two in a splint the muscles quiet down and presently they need exercise. Static exercise supplies this. The patient can generally teach himself the trick though he may need instruction. It should be begun within the first week. In passive exercise the patient's muscles are relaxed. The masseur makes the movements and bends the joints. They must be done so as not to disturb the position of the fracture. Some part of the splint is generally removed to make passive exercise possible.

In active exercise the patient is the operator. It is begun with some use of the muscles to increase endurance and to reteach the muscles. Active exercise is generally delayed too long.

The place in the scheme of occupational therapy is to get the joints and muscles and bones back to full efficiency.

THEY ARE EFFICIENT.

A reader writes:

1. Will a truss cure a rupture?

2. Is the kind with a ball the proper kind to use?

REPLY.

1. It will cure a few cases.

2. Such trusses are reasonably efficient.

Gold Star Mothers Arrive in France

Paris Is Host for 125, Who Are First Group to Make 1931 Trip.

Paris, May 1 (A.P.).—Paris was host tonight to the first 1931 group of American Gold Star Mothers, whose soldier sons are buried in France.

One hundred and twenty-five of them arrived this afternoon from Cherbourg and went to their hotels for brief rest. Later they had their first French dinner, and most of them retired early to prepare for tomorrow's visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the reception by officials of the French and American governments.

They all seemed healthy and in good spirits, and even Mrs. Jennie Randall, of Detroit, who broke an arm on the voyage from New York, was able to accompany the group today. Mrs. Mary Bentley, of Cincinnati, surprised French officials and army officers when she responded in good French to the welcoming address at the Invalides Station.

Circus Trains Due Sunday Afternoon

City of Tents to Be Erected for Monday and Tuesday Performances.

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus will arrive in four trains at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the show grounds, Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast, and immediately start throwing up its city of tents for appearances Monday and Tuesday afternoons and nights.

Sixteen hundred persons are in the troupe, more than 800 of whom are performers under the "big top," the world's largest tent, and the 30 other tents, covering 23 acres of ground. The menagerie contains "all the rare animals of the earth, with 43 elephants, 26 camels, 26 zebras, the tallest herd of giraffes in captivity and the largest tiger ever seen."

The downtown ticket sale will open at 9 o'clock this morning at Lansburgh & Co. and at the American Automobile Association headquarters.

FEDERATED WOMEN APPROVE MEASURES

One of Resolutions Favors Request for Community Center Fund.

Passage of two measures affecting local institutions and an address on the single tax law by James R. Brown, president of the Single Tax Club, of New York, featured the opening session of the annual meeting of the D. C. Federation of Women's Clubs yesterday at Hotel Roosevelt, with Mrs. Edgar Meritt, president, presiding.

Mr. Brown stressed the unfairness of taxing improvements on property rather than the land itself, pointing out that by this method the man who was ambitious and worked to improve his property was forced to pay for the advantages that accrued to his neighbor who made no effort to improve his land.

Of the two measures passed, one was a resolution indorsing the request for an additional $15,000 to be added to the annual Community Center Department Fund. Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, a member of the council of the Community Center Department, presented the resolution recommending its passage. The resolution also was heartily indorsed by Mrs. Virginia White Speef, past president.

Mrs. Wiley also was author of the second measure, giving indorsement to the campaign for union-made Washington bread now being conducted by the Associated Bakery Unions on behalf of the local bakery industry in an effort to combat out-of-town competition from nonunion bakeries.

Much of the afternoon session was devoted to reports of department and committee chairmen, including those of Mrs. Ellis Logan, chairman of the department of education; Mrs. Frank H. Snell, chairman of the department of legislation; Mrs. Jason Waterman, chairman of resolutions; Mrs. Jerome J. Lightfoot, chairman of the division of patriotism; Mrs. Anna Smith, chairman of the committee on playgrounds; Mrs. Charles A. Langley, chairman of hospitality; Mrs. Wallace Sherwood, chairman of the committee on law observance; the corresponding secretary, Mrs. C. Criswell; Mrs. W. W. Husband, chairman of the department of American citizenship, and Mrs. W. A. Winkelhaus, chairman of the department of the American home.

A musical program was presented by Mrs. H. M. Hunter, chairman of program, including solo numbers by Mrs. Selma Klein, mezzo-soprano, and a piano solo by Miss Constance Russell, 15-year-old radio performer.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE in probably no branch of show business more prolific in romance than the circus. Although seldom perceived through the glitter and tinsel of the "big show" by the general public, love stories worthy of the pen of some great romanticist have flourished under the "big tops."

There was the case of the lamented Lillian Leitzel, who fell to her death only a few months ago in Europe while executing her amazing feats of muscularity suspended high in the air, and Alfredo Codona, most graceful and greatest of the flying trapeze performers. When Codona joined the show an immediate affinity sprang up between the queen of the circus and the king of the aerialists. Miss Leitzel was quietly divorced from another member of the circus company and she and Codona were married—the three continuing understanding friends among the itinerant community's personnel. In a year or two more the Codonas were to have retired and made their permanent home in Southern California.

That dream, of course, was shattered by the tragic death of one of showdom's most ingratiating personalities, and Alfredo Codona now carries on alone with his astounding triple somersaults high in the vaulted canvas roof of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey mammoth tent—as you will see, come Monday.

Then there is the case of the Bradnas—Ella and Fred—whose romance has endured for something like 30 years or more.

More than a quarter of a century ago Fred de Febre was captain of a crack cavalry troop in Alsace-Lorraine. His parents were of the aristocracy and his social standing of the highest. Besides that, he was handsome and an unsurpassed horseman.

There came to the garrison town one day a little traveling tent show, known as the Ella Bradna Cirque. Ella Bradna was a bareback rider of extraordinary beauty and daring. With her the young cavalry officer fell immediately and hopelessly in love. His family, however, would not hear to the match and, to prevent it, cut the dashing and headstrong cavalryman off without a cent, forcing him, thus, to resign his command.

Forthwith Fred de Febre and Ella Bradna were married and Fred transferred his equestrianism from the mounted wing of the Army to the little circus of his bride—even adopting her name, instead of her his, as a bit of an outlet for his resentment against his family.

Today the Bradnas are among the high and mighty of the circus coming to town next Monday and Tuesday—Fred as equestrian director of the show; Ella as one of its foremost equestriennes.

How do you mean, romance is dead?

When Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics David S. Ingalls decides to tell a story to engage the attention of his audience, I mean to say he tells a story! His introductory anecdote, prefacing his speech at the invitational premiere of "Dirigible," at the Metropolitan Theater Wednesday night, caused almost as many gasps as it did laughs the point being just a trifle Barnacle Bill, if you get the idea.

Whether any interest attaches to the personal narrative of the individual subject or not, in all of these motion picture biographies that I have read there is some fascinating revelation of a little-known aspect of the development of the cinema as an industry of colossal importance.

In "The House That Shadows Built," Will Irwin's life history of Adolph Zukor, president of Paramount, it was the inside story of how the picture business was salvaged in its early days by the enlistment of the interests and the resources in money, plays and acting personnel of the Frohmans—Charles as the power in the American theater; Daniel as the sagacious showman who foresaw the tremendous potentialities of the screen.

In "The Life and Adventures of Carl Laemmle," written by John Drinkwater, the portion of the life story of the venerable president of Universal that will most impress the veteran picture man is that devoted to his single-handed fight against the so-called movie trust—not an entirely imaginary bugaboo in the early days of the industry.

It was Carl Laemmle, even then in middle age, who carried the fight to the trust and left it lying in the corner groggy and punch drunk. It was probably his most exciting adventure—next to winning the gold medal with "All Quiet on the Western Front."

As this is being written, the distressing news has just flashed over the wire that David Belasco, the old master of the theater, is dead.

In the passing of Belasco the American theater not only loses one of its most picturesque characters, but by far the stage's greatest technician in this country—a genius in achieving effect, whose wizardry has made more stars than would ever have reached the heights unaided by his intuitive sense of theater.

Vale, Maestro.

And almost on the same instant comes another flash that because Norma Talmadge insisted upon choosing her own vehicles, Samuel Goldwyn, of United Artists, has announced her release as a star of that organization. He explained that for reasons of policy it was impossible to continue her contract.

Miss Talmadge also issued a statement, saying: "I do not intend to make pictures until I find the story I want to do." In an addendum she disclosed that she has had several offers from producers both in this country and in Europe.

To which she probably replied, "No Schenck you!"

Japanese Pilot's Plane Is Damaged

Transpacific Flight to U. S. Is Seriously Delayed by Accident.

Tokyo, May 14 (A.P.).—Seiji Yoshihara, attempting a flight from Tokyo to San Francisco, damaged his seaplane today and the flight will be seriously delayed.

Fog, which concealed the volcanic peaks of the Kurile Islands and made flying over the sea hazardous, forced the young Japanese to descend off the coast of Shimushiru Island while flying from Shana toward Muroton Bay.

For four hours Yoshihara drifted on the ocean and when he and his seaplane were picked up by the steamer Hakuho Maru the plane was found so badly damaged as to necessitate its return to the Japanese main islands for repair.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., and first vice president Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, advanced to the presidency of the chapter without opposition at the annual election last night at chapter headquarters in the Becker Building.

Richard A. Norris, Lincoln National Bank, advanced to the first vice presidency under similar conditions. Robert H. Lacey, Columbia National Bank, was elected second vice president and Miss Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co., was reelected secretary without opposition.

In the contests, Walton L. Sanderson, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., was elected treasurer over Henry F. Kimball, American Security & Trust Co., and Miss Constance Fogle, Riggs National Bank, was elected assistant secretary over Miss Christine Haggerty, Union Trust Co. J. Earle McGeary, W. B. Hibbs & Co., defeated Kenneth Birgfeld, Riggs National Bank, for the office of chief consul.

Miss Anna P. Crawford, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Robert E. Lee, Lincoln National Bank; Alfred W. Sherman, American Security & Trust Co., and Robert A. Statistics dealing with income and passenger car registration in the District of Columbia have been prepared by the Bureau of Business Conditions, a division of Alexander Hamilton Institute, and appear in the May credit and sales bulletin of that bureau.

They show that the 1930 income of the District of Columbia was $333,500,000, as compared with $420,000,000 in 1929 and that its per capita income for 1930 was $685, as against $871 the previous year.

Relative to passenger car registration, the bulletin states that families of the District of Columbia numbered 113,225 in 1930, and that passenger car registration last year was 139,733. This was a 3.2 per cent gain in registration over 1928 and makes an average of 0.81 families per car.

Months Sales Gain.

Seasonal gains shown in recent months in sales and collections conditions are holding their own, according to the May survey of sales and collection compiled by Credit and Financial management, official publication of the National Association of Credit Men. The survey is based on reports from correspondents in touch with wholesalers and manufacturers in 116 of the country's chief trading centers. Five cities of the 116 surveyed, report good collections, as contrasted to three in April and but one in March.

President John Poole, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., will address the convention of the New Jersey Bankers Association today on "The Selection and Training of Personnel."

Fernando Cuniberti, chairman of the board of International Exchange Bank, was host of officers and directors of that institution at a dinner at his residence last night. Mr. Cuniberti, who is sailing for Italy on a vacation trip May 20, was, through President Joseph Schiavone, of the bank, presented with a gift as a token of the officers' and directors' esteem.

STANDARD OIL NET DROPS $78,762,132

New Jersey Company Head Blames Overproduction for Price Cuts.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Consolidated net profit of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey for 1930 was $42,150,662, a decrease of $78,762,132 from the comparative 1929 total of $120,912,794. The 1930 total is equivalent to $1.65 a share on the 25,518,468 shares outstanding at the end of 1929. Dividends paid during 1930 amounted to $30,929,686.

W. C. Teagle, president of the company, in the annual report, says considerable advantage to the petroleum industry would have resulted from the curtailment program except for the fact that "refiners as a whole failed to scale down their operations to a point at which the finished stocks could be profitably marketed," although the industry entered the year with excessive gasoline stocks.

"The inevitable occurred," Mr. Teagle remarks. "Gasoline produced from the surplus crude run depressed the whole gasoline price structure, which in time reacted upon the posted price of crude oil. This outcome was more significant in view of the fact that domestic consumption of gasoline in 1930 established a new high level, being 18,000,000 barrels in excess of 1929.

"The average wholesale price of gasoline in the midcontinent during 1930 was 5.72 cents a gallon, against 7.21 cents in the preceding year. The average price of all grades of domestic crude throughout the year was but 7 cents a barrel below the average of $1.27, which prevailed in 1929."

Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey has not contributed to the present excess stock situation, Mr. Teagle says. During the past five years stocks of crude oil and products carried by the industry have increased by 112,000,000 barrels of 20 per cent. In the same period the company has reduced its stocks by more than 19,000,000 barrels, of 21 per cent.

Total crude production of the company was 56.7 per cent of its refinery runs. The rest of its crude was purchased from other producers. Production in the United States totaled 51,906,114 barrels and foreign fields contributed 50,612,368. The company's various interests produced 7¼ per cent of the world's crude supply and 5¾ per cent of the domestic supply in 1930.

Crude runs at all the company's domestic and foreign refineries aggregated 180,676,000 barrels, a decline of 16,000,000 barrels from 1929. The decrease was all at the domestic plants in keeping with the recommendation of the Federal Oil Conservation Board in March, 1930.

Reductions in inventories of finished products and improvements in cracking equipment permitted the company to meet its market requirements for the more valuable products.

Cash Register Manager Quits After 25 Years

He has been associated with the concern in various capacities for 25 years. No successor has been decided upon, company officials stated.

Richmond Rediscount Rate Cut to 3 Per Cent

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday that the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond had reduced its rediscount rate from 3½ to 3 per cent on all classes of paper on all maturities effective today.

The Richmond bank was the seventh of the twelve Federal Reserve Banks to reduce rediscount rates in the last ten days. The other banks and their new rates are Boston, 2 per cent; New York, 1½ per cent; Philadelphia, 3 per cent; Cleveland, 2½ per cent; Chicago, 2½ per cent, and Dallas, 3 per cent.

Public Oversubscribes 2 Treasury Offerings

(Associated Press.)

The Treasury announced yesterday that the two series of Treasury bills to be dated May 18 were heavily oversubscribed.

A total of $195,765,000 was applied for in the $50,000,000 offering of 60-day bills, while applications for the $50,000,000 issue of 91-day bills aggregated $263,301,000. The total amount accepted for the 60-day bills was $50,102,000, at an average price of 99.833; of the 91-day bills, $50,000,000 was accepted at an average price of 99.745.

STOCK PRICES CLOSE LOWER BY 2 POINTS

Issues Suffer in Friendless Rail Market; Many Steel Commons Sold.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Stocks labored under the heavy handicap of friendless rail market today, and although the decline tended to be selective, net losses averaged considerably more than 2 points in a turnover of 1,800,000 shares.

Professional sellers unloaded a large volume of United States Steel common, which made another bear market low of 106⅛, off 3⅜. Most of the rails went to new minimum levels for several years back, with substantial declines in New York Central, Pennsylvania, Rock Island, Southern Railway, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific, Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, and New Haven. The range of losses for this list was 2½ to 5⅜ points. Missouri Pacific preferred lost 6½.

Industrials like General Electric, American Can, General Motors, Westinghouse, Union Carbide, Chrysler, Kennecott, and Bethlehem Steel closed less than a point lower.

Oil Share Break.

Standard Oil of New Jersey broke more than one in anticipation of the 1930 earnings statement. American Telephone, National Biscuit, Sears Roebuck, Hershey Chocolate, Allied Chemical and Woolworth lost 2 to 3. Auburn went to the extreme of a 31-point plunge, while Ingersoll Rand and International Business Machines suffered a larger than average loss.

Share quotations dropped in the morning, but the industrials tugged the list to better levels during the early afternoon. Failure of the rails to follow the rally disclosed the market's fundamental heaviness and bearish professionals unlimbered a vigorous drive aganst United States Steel, New York Central, and a few other pivotal shares in the last hour, with the result that the market closed at the lowest.

Reduction in the bank of England's discount rate to 2½ per cent, the lowest since 1907, was considered more from its long than its near term possibilities.

Cut Pleases Bankers.

Bankers here regarded the cut as a constructive step, pointing out that it was logical in view of last week's action by the New York Federal Reserve authorities. Apparently the British bankers felt the lower London rate would not result in a loss of gold. The Bank of England's reserves gained about $7,500,000 in the past week, bringing the total just above 150,000,000 pounds for the first time since last December.

Bill purchases and holdings of U. S. Government securities by the local reserve bank dropped in the week ended May 13, but there was a small gain in discounts. This suggested that the bank had decided to give the lower rediscount rate time to take effect before attempting to keep money easy through operations elsewhere.

Forecasts of showers in Canada, a bearish crop estimate and larger Russian exports contributed to the weakness of wheat which closed 1¾ to 1¾ lower for the later deliveries. Corn lost from ⅞ to 2¼ cents net on a bearish Iowa State report and a lower cash market. The Census Bureau's estimate that April cotton consumption was about 18,000 bales larger than March's had little effect on futures, which were considerably influenced by weakness of grains and stocks, losing 11 to 15 points net.

Foreign exchanges were mixed and quiet. Sterling cables, the Dutch guilder and the Canadian dollar eased slightly.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—Parallel with the stock market, grains took a downward path today and suffered 2 cents or more tumble in wheat and corn. Stop-loss selling was accelerated by predictions of showers in the Canadian drought section and by large Russian exports of wheat, whereas North American export demand was slack. Offerings of new 1931 domestic winter wheat on a low basis at Texas points were announced.

Wheat closed nervous at almost the day's bottom figures, a shade to 2 cents down, corn 2⅛@2¼ cents off, oats showing 1⅝@2¾ decline, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Slight early advances in wheat disappeared and the market went irregularly downgrade, especially during late transactions. Extremely optimistic reports regarding the outlook for the 1931 United States winter wheat harvest were current, and messages were received saying dealers in Texas were contracting for new wheat on the basis of 40 cents a bushel at country points.

Selling from Northwestern sources was a late feature in wheat. This selling was ascribed to likelihood of rain in Alberta and Saskatchewan Provinces, Canada, the largest wheat-producing section of the Dominion. Earlier, the Canadian forecasts had pointed to unabated drought. There were reports, too, showing general lack of rain both sides of the Canadian boundary, with bush fires in Canada emphasizing urgent need of rain. Russian shipments for the week totaled 1,552,000 bushels of wheat and 995,000 bushels of rye.

Auspicious weather for the planting and growth of corn added to the burden of selling in all cereals. Shipping demand for corn was sluggish. Oats gave way with corn.

Provisions averaged lower, responsive to action of hog values and of grain.

BOND PRICES HIGHER IN IRREGULAR SALES

High-Class Issues Record Gains; Losses Are Made on Other Loans.

New York, May 14 (A.P.).—Price movements in bonds today were unusually irregular. Generally higher prices were the rule among the strictly high-class issues.

Railroad obligations declined gradually, but public utilities and industrials were usually steady. The standard statistics average price of ten rail issues dropped 1.1 points to 100.2 whereas the average for ten bonds each of rails, utilities and industrials was 95.2, a loss of three-tenths of a point.

The genuineness of the strength in the gilt-edge group may be realized from the fact that five issues of the United States Government reached new 1931 peaks, and another equaled its old top price. Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Illinois Division 4s, American Telephone debenture 5s of 1960, Union Pacific first 4s of 1947 and 4s of 1968, Oregon-Washington 4s of 1961, Public Service Electric & Gas 4s of 1971 and New York Steam 5s of 1951 all reached new 1931 high levels. The foregoing group should not be classified as exactly equal in investment standing, but they can all be called high grade.

However, net losses ranging from 1½ to 3 points in the obligations of the Missouri Pacific and the St. Louis, San Francisco, and fractional declines in some Pennsylvania and most New York Central lines were significant also. Many issues of less well-known carriers made varying declines.

Phillips Petroleum 5½s closed at 62, with a net gain of 4 points, following the announcement that the sinking fund requirements for June 1 had been met and that sufficient funds were available for the next interest payment. Firmness appeared in such industrials as Bethlehem Steel 5s of 1936 and of 1942, Atlantic Refining 5s, Inland Steel series A 4½ and Goodyear 5s.

Foreign issues were irregular usually on a few sales. Austrian 7s of 1957 were under pressure. Argentine obligations made good recoveries.

NATS TRIUMPH OVER INDIANS, 5-4, AS KUHEL IS INJURED; BONES DEFEATS PITT AT CHEVY CHASE, BOWS TO EYNON

1st Baseman Hurts Knee, Is Forced Out of Lineup; Sam Jones Checks Tribe

Drives in 2 Runs But Wilts on Mound as Game Nears End.

Nats Hammer Miller; Cronin Hits Triple and Double.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.
(Post Staff Correspondent).

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 14.—Another former Washington Club enigma joined Wes Ferrell in falling by the wayside here this afternoon when the reincarnated Nationals turned in a 5-to-4 victory at the expense of Southpaw Walter Miller, the defeat being the sixth in succession for the Indians, the Nats' fourth triumph in a row, and their fourth out of five since they hit the Western sector.

The veteran, Sad Sam Jones, went the route for the Johnsons, but near the end he had little more than a prayer. This, fortunately, was answered when Pinch Hitter Joe Vosmik grounded out to end the game with the tying Tribe run on the bases. Miller stuck along with Jones until the Cleveland eighth, when he gave way to a pinch hitter and Fay Thomas retired the Nats in one, two, three order in the ninth.

Triumph May Prove Costly.

This triumph may prove quite costly to the Washington Club, for first baseman Joe Kuhel twisted his right knee in the second inning and later had to give way to Baxter Jordan. Kuhel hurt himself when he stumbled rounding first on his double, which was the first shot of a three-run rally. Just how long he will have to remain inactive will not be known until tomorrow morning in St. Louis, when an X-ray photograph will be taken. Indications are, however, that he will not be available tomorrow because of stiffness even if the X-ray shows nothing serious.

Jones and Miller staged quite a mound duel, with both being scored on in the second. With two gone, Kuhel doubled and then followed singles by Bluege and Spencer and a two-bagger by Jones, this latter driving over two of the three runs scored. In the home half, Porter doubled and Johnny Burnett, replacing the injured Morgan at third, poled a homer over the right-field wall.

At the end of this round, the score was 3 to 2 and the Nats enjoyed a slight margin over the remainder of the route. In the sixth, Cronin's opening triple and West's single made the Nats 2 up, but for a great diving catch by Hodapp, of Spencer's liner, which was turned into a double play, the Nats would have done more damage.

Cronin's Double Helps.

The Nats went 3 to the good in the next frame, when Hayes' single, Sam Rice's force play, a walk and Cronin's double netted a run and then they confined their efforts to making this margin stand up. They were successful in holding part of it, but only after being given some scares.

With one out in the eighth, a single by Jamieson, a helpful out, and Averill's one-baser, gave the Tribe one run and in the ninth they coined another after the first two up had fouled to Spencer. Sewell doubled to left and Pinch Hitter Myatt singled him home. Manager Johnson was on the verge of yanking Jones in favor of Irving Hadley, who had been warming up since the seventh, but he gave Jones one more chance and he got away with it when he forced Vosmik, up for the pitcher, to roll to Cronin for a force play at the middle sack.

Of the Nationals' nine hits, Cronin showed the way with a double and triple, each of which figured in run coining. Sewell had the same record for the Indians, while Averill also was credited with two safeties. Bluege shared fielding honors with Hodapp, turning in a sensational back-handed stab of Burnett's drive in the seventh.

NATS INVADE ST. LOUIS TODAY

Special to The Washington Post.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, May 14.—Manager Walter Johnson and his Nationals are due to leave here late tonight for St. Louis, where they meet the Browns in a four-game series scheduled to get under way tomorrow. Killifer's outfit, pygmies against most of the other entrants in the circuit, looked like giants to the Washington club last year and proved to be the only combination to better them on the year's play.

A special league rule permits the Browns to move up Monday games and make them part of Sabbath double-headers and this likely will be done in the coming series, although Secretary Edward B. Eynon, jr., of the Nats, has not yet been so advised.

Johnson has big Fred Marberry groomed to do the Washington flinging tomorrow with Carl Fischer due to perform on Saturday.

Myer Idles With Lame Wrist.

Although not complaining of it yesterday, Second Baseman Buddie Myer pulled up with a slightly sprained wrist this morning and probably will be forced to idle for three or four more days. Jack Hayes subbed for him.

The injury was received when Myer fell over Morgan in a run-down between second and third late in yesterday's game.

An Indian casualty also was reported, as Ed Morgan, at third base for the Tribe, was spiked by Henie Manush and he also was forced out of the line-up commission.

Peckinpaugh made another change in his line-up, benching Joe Vosmik, a sensation during the first week of the season, in favor of the veteran, Charley Jamieson. Vosmik pinch-hit for Thomas in the ninth, however, and ended the game by hitting into a force play.

Jones' first six offerings were balls, but they did no harm, for Fonseca then hit into a double play, Bluege to Hayes to Kuhel, which quickly erased the stroller from the runways.

Porter backed up against the right-field wall and just managed to jump high enough to fasten himself on the end of Hayes' looper, ending the Nats' second. It cost the Nats another run.

Averill traveled back a country mile for Spencer's looper, with Bluege on first in the fourth.

Hodapp pulled a "Jesse James" at the Nats' expense when he made a great diving one-handed catch of Spencer's liner and turned it into a double play ending the Nats' sixth. West was on second and Bluege on first at the time and it looked as though both would score on the drive until Hodapp snared it.

Cronin did some clever place-hitting when he doubled to score Sam Rice in the seventh. Just as Miller made the pitch the "San Francisco Keed" calmly shifted his position and shot a drive down the right-field line. Manush also tried to register on the blow, but was caught by a narrow margin on Hodapp's perfect throw to the plate.

Bluege made a diving back-handed grab of Burnett's liner toward third, which was one of the kind of plays you read about, but seldom see. This came in the seventh and prevented a run, for Sewell followed with a triple.

Red Sox Pound Hoyt Out for 4-to-3 Victory

Detroit, Mich., May 14 (A.P.).—One big inning—the sixth—gave the Boston Red Sox a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers today in the final of a three-game series, the first two games of which went to the Tigers.

Boston pounded Waite Hoyt for five hits in that inning, and Hoyt gave way on the mound to Herring, who later was succeeded by Sullivan. The winners also used three pitchers, Durham, Lisenbee and Moore. The Tigers, leading, 2-0, until the sixth, drove Lisenbee out in that inning with none out, and Moore held them to a single run.

MRS. MYRTLE HUDDLESTON never knew how to swim until 1926. In 1927 she set a record for the Catalina Channel swim, covering the 36 miles in 20 hours, 42 minutes.

In 1928 she set a world's endurance record in Chicago, when she swam continuously for 50 hours, 10 minutes and 15 4-5 seconds. Later in the year she won the pool championship at Coney Island, staying in the water for 60 hours, 2 minutes. This mark only falls a few hours short of the endurance record for men.

The tree that grows from a window sill in Winchester, Va., is a Magnolia and, strange as it seems, the sill is solid oak. The tree blossoms profusely each year. Twelve years ago the shoot was noticed growing out of a crack in the second story window. It grew outward and upward, forcing the old sill out and taking its place. The trunk is about 8 inches through and the branches spread from 12 to 15 feet. The roots seem to thrive only on the limeston walls.

Any reader wanting further proof of anything depicted here should address the author, care of The Washington Post, and inclose a stamped and self-addressed envelope for reply. JOHN HIX.

MACKS BEAT CHISOX FOR 6TH IN ROW

Walberg in Command While Simmons Hits Sixth Homer.

COMISKEY PARK, Chicago, May 14 (A.P.).—Rube Walberg held the Chicago White Sox helpless in all but the sixth inning this afternoon and won his fifth victory of the season, 5 to 2. It was the sixth straight win for the Philadelphia Athletics and kept them in first place.

Vic Frasier started for Chicago but Al Simmons' homer in the fifth with Cochrane on brought Ted Lyons into the game the next inning. Lyons, doing his first pitching of the year in Chicago, held the A's to one run in the last four innings. Frasier was not hit hard but was wild and received the defeat.

Maryland Nine Plays Virginia Poly Today

The beginning of a busy week-end in sports for local collegians this afternoon finds five contests scheduled. Maryland University's baseball clash with Virginia Military Institute at College Park is the feature. This event starts at 4 o'clock.

Two of the other four contests also will be played on local grounds. Georgetown's tennis engages the racqueters of Lafayette College at Columbia Country Club, beginning at 3:15, while Maryland's netmen oppose Richmond University on courts yet to be selected.

Away from home, Georgetown's baseball team meets the Quantico Marine post nine at Quantico in the first game of a two-day series and the Georgetown golf team encounters Holy Cross at Princeton, N. J., in an Eastern Intercollegiate League match.

Vogt, G. W. Gridman, Offered Trial by Cards

Bill Vogt, substitute end on the 1930 George Washington University football team, recently received an offer to join the St. Louis Cardinals, it was learned here yesterday. Vogt left the university a short time ago and went to St. Louis, where he has been playing baseball with a sandlot team. His brother, Al Vogt, is a football and baseball player also. He is at present in the university.

Yeomans Semifinalist In Conference Tennis

Special to The Washington Post.

New Orleans, La., May 14.—University of North Carolina's team, despite the loss of its first and second ranking stars—Bryant Grant and Wilmer Hines—has placed one entry each in the singles and doubles semifinals of the Southern Conference tennis championships, current here.

Ed Yeomans, Washington D. C., youth, carried Tarheel colors to the penultimate round in singles today with a surprise defeat of Martin Mayer, No. 2 for Tulane, 6—3, 3—6, 6—1. Paired with H. H. Hendlin, Yeomans advanced to the doubles semifinals on a default by the Faulkner brothers, of Mississippi.

In tomorrow's play Yeomans meets Eastman, Tulane No. 1, in singles, and with Handlin engages O'Kelley and Doyle, Tulane, in the doubles.

YANKS BEAT BROWNS BY 14 TO 2

Ruffing Shows Rare Form; Gehrig Hits Two Homers.

ST. LOUIS, May 14 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees combined heavy hitting with Charley Ruffing's great pitching today to defeat the Browns 14 to 2 and sweep the two-game series.

Ruffing held the Browns hitless up to the eighth inning. They collected three of their four hits in the ninth, scoring both their runs. It was Ruffing's fourth victory of the season and the fifth straight for the Yanks.

Lou Gehrig led the Yankee clouting, hitting his fifth and sixth home runs of the season in the first and second innings. He also singled to drive in six runs. The Yanks drove Sammy Gray from the mound before he retired a man in the first inning. They scored five runs in that frame and six more in the sixth. Stiles, Coffman and Stiely also worked for the Browns.

Twenty Grand In Brilliant Workout

Shows Good Finish Over Mile in 1:42 as Track Dries Out.

Curtis and Party on Derby Scene; Only 10 May Go.

By ALAN GOULD
(Associated Press Sports Editor).

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14 (A.P.).—Over a track still heavy from days of rain, but drying fast under the first warm sun of the week, Twenty Grand gave the advance guard at Churchill Downs today a good show of the finishing speed that has made this ace of the Greentree Stable an outstanding favorite to win the fifty-seventh running of the Kentucky Derby on Saturday.

It was the way Twenty Grand galloped as much as the time of 1:37 for a workout of a mile and an eighth that impressed the critics and heartened those who have backed the stable entry owned by Mrs. Payne Whitney to the favored position of 5-2 in the wagering.

Paced by Anchors Aweigh, Man o' War colt and stablemate, Twenty Grand was clocked at the quarter in 0:23 4-5, the half in 0:48 3-5, the three-quarters in 1:15 3-5, then galloped easily in front to lead by three lengths at the mile in 1:42, and eased the additional furlong in 1:57.

It was the most impressive workout by any one of the half dozen Derby contenders which were given their last public time trials in preparation for the $50,000 classic. Surf Board, third of the probable Greentree starters, went the mile and an eighth in 1:58. A. C. Bostwick's Mate, winner of the Preakness and strong second choice for the Derby at odds of 7 to 2, breezed three-quarters easily in 1:19 1-5.

Griffin Watkins' Insco, one of the few real hopes of the West against the powerful Eastern invasion, galloped a mile in 1:43 2-5, thereby giving some fresh hope to the "hard boots" of Old Kentucky.

There was a gay and colorful crowd at the Downs all afternoon, as thousands of visitors from the East and Middle West began the annual influx for America's most picturesque turf event. Among them was Vice President Charles Curtis, who arrived with his sister, Mrs. Dolly Gann, and her husband, Edward Everett Gann. The Vice President, long a thoroughbred enthusiast, will be the Derby's guest of honor.

Since not even hard times can keep Kentuckians away from Louisville on Derby Day, upward of 50,000 are expected to witness a race that most of the critics expect to add a sensational chapter to the classic's history.

Despite the strong hand of the East, with the Greentree Stable entry, Mate, and C. V. Whitney's Equipoise as the first three choices in the betting, the West has hopes of springing a surprise. If Insco does come through the belief is that Thomas E. Mueller's Pittsburgher, the "big train," may upset the Eastern favorites. Pittsburgher worked an impressive trial recently and will have an advantage on a fast track.

The prospect of fair and warmer weather for the next two days not only may have a strong bearing on track conditions, but mean that the Derby has shaken the jinx of bad weather. It has rained for the last three years.

For the first time in years the col-

1930 Winner Defeated in Tourney

Semifinals Gained by Eynon, Hermann, Burrows, Lunn.

Bones Ousted After Defeating Pitt on 19th Green.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

WHILE the winner of the Chevy Chase Club invitation tournament this afternoon can not be predicted, it is certain that a new name will be engraved upon the Taft trophy. Harry G. Pitt, of the Manor Club, winner for the past three consecutive years, was defeated in the first round of match play yesterday by Thomas F. Bones, jr., Columbia, on the nineteenth hole. Not one of the four semifinalists has previously won the Chevy Chase event.

In the upper half of the bracket, James D. Herrman, of the Washington Club, will play against Everett Eynon, champion of the Columbia Club, while in the lower half, Bradley H. Burrows, of Rock Creek Park fame, will oppose Richard H. Lunn, Burning Tree. It might better be a football match instead of a golf contest between Burrows and Lunn, for the former, 24 years old, weighs 198 pounds, and Lunn, in his seventeenth year, tips the scales at about 200.

Lunn Beats Fisher in Extended Match.

Lunn reached the semifinals in unusual fashion. In his afternoon match against Louis Fisher, Congressional, he was 1 up on the eighteenth tee. When after three putts he holed out in 5 he thought he had secured a half for a win and Fisher congratulated him on his victory. Then Fisher, recalling his own shots, showed that he had played his third shot to the green and holed out in one putt for a 4, squaring the match. Thereupon the players fought it out on the nineteenth hole, when Lunn won. "I am certain that I won this time," he said as he walked back to the clubhouse.

An unusual number of interesting matches marked the day's play. Harry Pitt was 2 up and 3 to play against Bones, but after losing the sixteenth and seventeenth and halving the eighteenth, although Bones' ball tipped the cup for a win on the latter hole, he lost on the nineteenth when his second shot landed his ball on the side of a trap instead of on the green.

Hunter Loses Five Straight Holes.

J. Monro Hunter, jr., in his morning match against Fisher, was 4 up and 5 to play. Fisher then played five successive pars, carrying the match to the nineteenth hole, where Hunter lost. Another extra match ended on the nineteenth hole when Thomas S. Pitt, Argyle, laid a stymie against his opponent, Volney Burnett, Beaver Dam, which the latter failed to negotiate.

The largest gallery of the day followed the match in the afternoon between Bones, medalist of the tourna-

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THIS column last week was visibly affected by the imminence and geographical proximity of the Preakness and went down the line for the Pimlico classic as the piece de resistance of the American turf. Now, with the Kentucky Derby only a day away, a new emotion wells from within and brings into relief the realization that, after all, there is only one Derby.

On the broad expanse of Churchill Downs, Kentucky will be staging its fifty-seventh renewal of the Derby, which had its first running in 1875, and the thoroughbred clans will gather from East and West for the race that has come to stand as the choicest prize on the racing calendar, steeped in a tradition that only the Blue Grass with its backdrop of fast horses and pretty girls can provide.

Unlike the Preakness at Pimlico, a racing oasis hemmed in by the far-flung boundaries of Baltimore, and unlike the Belmont, on the fringe of New York, the Derby is a horse race in a horse country, where the thoroughbred reigns the live-long year and the "hard boots" from the hills are a considerable portion of the throng at the Downs.

East vs. West

It is in the Darby that the stars of the East clash with the hopes of the West for the first time each year in contrast to the Preakness, which attracts only the outstanding among the East's 3-year-olds, while the West's star group is occupied with the early Kentucky racing at Lexington and the Downs. Few Western owners care to risk the long shipment of Derby hopes to Baltimore for the Preakness.

Western hopes are in eclipse for the 1931 Derby, with none of the Kentucky stars rated with the invaders from the East, topped by Mate, Twenty Grand and Equipoise. The "hard boots" were deprived of a chance to shout for a native Kentuckian when Col. E. R. Bradley deemed neither B'ar Hunter or Barometer of Derby caliber and withdrew both.

Barring further form reversals, Pittsburgher stands as the chief reliance of the Western contingent by virtue of his three victories out of five races as a 3-year-old, including triumphs over Insco, Sweep All, Spanish Play and other racers at the Downs.

Equipoise Welcomes Mud

But Pittsburgher has failed to show any performance that would rank him with Twenty Grand or Mate or even Equipoise despite the Whitney horse's two disappointing races in Maryland. Come mud, Equipoise would recover a deal of the support he lost when he ran a poor fourth in the Preakness, and there is an indication that the track at the Downs will be by no means fast.

Three days before the Derby it was ascertained that Derby tradition would go by the boards with the use of a starting gate for the first time in the fifty-seven years of the classic.

INJUNCTION MENACES STRIBLING-SCHMELING BOUT

"Prize Fight" Law to Be Invoked

Insurance Agent Files Plea in Effort to Stop Battle.

Garden to Declare July 3 Match Is "Boxing Bout."

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, May 14 (A.P.).—The law reached into the heavyweight box fight business again today and decreed that another world championship battle must first be fought by a couple of squads of lawyers.

Without previous warning of his feelings in the matter David Fischer, an insurance agent, sent his attorney, J. H. Mellen, up to the bar in the Cleveland Court of Appeals to request of Judge Manuel Levine an injunction to prevent the July 3 match between Max Schmeling and Young Stribling in Cleveland.

He was ready to argue that the bout is a prize fight and that prize fighting is illegal in the State of Ohio. Judge Levine refused to accept his petition on the ground that his court had no jurisdiction, but Attorney Mellen promptly filed his plea all over again in the Court of Common Pleas.

Now on Basis With Sharkey-Primo Bout.

Then the Cleveland title duel climbed up on an equal basis in the matter of injunctions with another match billed as a heavyweight championship affair, the Primo Carnera-Jack Sharkey bout optimistically scheduled for June 10 at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn. Each show now has one injunction against it, thereby qualifying both as championship affairs. Under the late Tex Rickard's sage definition, "You can't have a real heavyweight title fight without a good lawsuit."

Fischer's plea for an injunction to prevent the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Ohio from staging the Stribling-Schmeling match described the affair as a "public nuisance" that would attract a "dangerous and violent assembly." Informally the city law director, Harold H. Burton, outlined the defense the Ohio garden probably will offer by commenting that the match is a "boxing bout," not a "prize fight," and as such is legal under an Ohio statute permitting boxing bouts in public gymnasiums.

Schmeling to Receive $300,000, Is Estimate

Cleveland, May 14 (A.P.).—Examination of the contracts for the Schmeling-Stribling heavyweight championship bout here July 3 disclosed today that Champion Max Schmeling will receive 40 per cent of the gate receipts after deductions for expenses and taxes. The contender, W. L. (Young) Stribling will take 12½ per cent as his share.

On this basis, fight experts estimated Schmeling's pay for the 15-round bout at approximately $300,000. Stribling's remuneration would be about $93,750. The total gate receipts have been estimated at $950,000.

THIS MORNING:

Tomorrow, if the field does not exceed fourteen, and there is no indication that it will, the entries will get away from the post from the stalls of the mechanical starting device, an incongruous contraption on the Derby track that has seen the thoroughbreds get away from the mark these many years from the old-fashioned walk-up-and-away start.

Vagaries of Betting

The week between the Preakness and the Derby has seen the vagaries of the betting exemplified. Forthwith after his triumph in the Preakness, Mate became the Derby favorite with Twenty Grand the second choice and Equipoise the third best liked. The interim seemed to restore the confidence of the public in Twenty Grand and Mate receded to cofavoritism with the Greentree star, but the public has taken longer to recover from the two poor races of Equipoise.

A factor in the support of Twenty Grand is the added distance in the Derby with its extra sixteenth mile over the Preakness distance. At the rate that Twenty Grand picked up the field in the turn for home at Pimlico and in consideration of the ground that he made up in the final running, support has swerved strongly to Mrs. Payne Whitney's chief reliance despite the fact that Mate won well within himself.

The Preakness may stand Kurtsinger on Twenty Grand in good stead. It may have revealed that Equipoise, the sluggish starter, is not the horse to beat in the Derby and permit him to hustle the Greentree colt along at every stage of the race, barring interference such as marked the Preakness. But only Derby day will bring the result.

Man o' War Colt Wins Feature at Jamaica

Jamaica Race Track, N. Y., May 14 (A.P.).—Continued showers and a sloppy track were in evidence as the Metropolitan Jockey Club's 23-day spring meeting came to a close here today. Small fields were the order in a majority of the events and the crowd assumed only fair proportions. The Garden City Claiming Handicap, first run in 1904, attracted four contestants to compete over the mile and a sixteenth distance.

The $2,550 winner's share of the purse went to Morton L. Schwartz's Man o' War colt, Quarter Deck, which was the 6-to-5 favorite. Little H. Callahan had the colt under restraint all the way and his mount scored in a gallop by ten lengths, running the distance in 1:46 3-5.

Florida Senate Passes Bill Legalizing Mutuel Wagering

TALLAHASSE, Fla., May 14 (A.P.).—Horse racing with pari mutuel betting would be legalized in Florida under terms of a bill passed by the State Senate today.

The lower house of the Legislature has not acted upon the measure.

An amendment that would have required a State-wide referendum on the measure was defeated in the Senate a short while before the bill was passed. Approval by local option in counties where tracks are operated would be required under terms of the bill. It would also create a State racing commission with authority to grant permits for the operation of tracks, but local voters would be required to approve the permits before the tracks could open.

Production of State revenue was embodied as one purpose of the bill. It would require that 3 per cent of the money wagered in pari mutuel machines be collected and distributed equally among the 67 counties of the State for various needs.

Horse and dog racing has been conducted in Florida for some time through oral wagering and by a stock certificate system.

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 14.—A well-balanced program of races has been carded for the day's sport which precedes Derby Day. Turf fans from the remote points have started their journey to witness the fifty-seventh running of the classic. While there is little hope of a fast track, it is possible that the strip will dry out considerably before tomorrow.

The Debutante Stakes, a test for 2-years-old fillies over the 5-furlong distance, which features the card tomorrow afternoon, has attracted a field of twelve smart juvenlies, to contest the $5,000 added value of the fixture.

AT SUNRISE, fleet filly from the stable of E. B. McLean, scored impressively in her debut. The daughter of the Messenger—On Guard appears best of the eleven youngsters pitted against her and should take down the major portion of the feature. BUTTER BEANS, owned by the Forest Cove Stable, and also a winner at this track, is in prime condition and figures to extend the top one. PORTER'S DREAM, showed a nice winning effort last start and coupled with AT SUNRISE, may prove dangerous.

The fourth event, the Riverview Purse, for 3-year-olds and upward, received seven entries in this 7 furlong allowance affair, which will support the main attraction. BARGELLO, clever Whitney horse, has shown speed

52 CAPITAL CITY NINES IN GAMES

League Clubs Face Busy Week-End

Capital City Circuit Has Games in All Sections.

Seniors, Juniors, Midgets, Insects to Make Debut.

FIFTY-TWO baseball teams, involving approximately 800 players, will swing into action over the week-end in the seventh annual city championship race of the Capital City League, conducted under the auspices of The Washington Post. Four of the teams entered in the various divisions drew byes for the opening day and will therefore not see action until the following week.

The teams comprising the insect section will play their initial games tomorrow, with the older aggregations seeing action Sunday.

The pennant fight promises to be one of the most colorful and interesting in years, and many are looking forward to even better competition than has been evidenced in the past. This despite the fact that each succeeding Capital City League race has topped its predecessor in good baseball, keen competition and fair play.

Managers to Get Permits.

Although many of the teams expressed a desire to play on certain diamonds the large number of entrants made it impossible for league officials to grant the wishes of the various managers. Teams have been assigned playing fields without regard to their ability or their class. To avoid confusion the managers of the teams listed as the home clubs are requested to call at The Post to receive their permits for the use of the fields Sunday. After the game the team bringing the box score to The Post will return the permit. A new rule of the director of the playing fields requires both teams to take possession of the field not more than 15 minutes after the time assigned.

40 TO ENTER WOODBERRY GOLF PLAY

Virginia Scholastic Event Attracts Young Stars.

ORANGE, Va., May 14.—Belated entries by Beverly Manor High School of Staunton, Lee High School of Staunton, Alexandria High School and Shenandoah Valley Academy, Lynchburg, have increased to 21 the total number of schools that will be represented in the golf tournament for Virginia schoolboys which will be held at Woodberry Forest on Saturday.

A driving contest for distance and direction will be held at 4:30 on Friday. The tournament proper will be completed in one day. On Saturday each of the 40 contestants will play 36 holes of golf. The team with the lowest gross score for the day's play will be declared the winner. The players on this team will be presented with beautiful silver goblets, and their names and the name of their schools will be inscribed on a handsome cup. The runner-up team and the team with the third-best score will also receive prizes.

No one seems to be willing at this time to hazard a guess as to which of the teams will be victorious. Woodrow Wilson High School, Portsmouth, is sending as its pair Chandler Harper, the amateur golf champion of Virginia, and Gordon Rawls. Nothing is known about Rawls, but if he is even a fair player, the Portsmouth Team will certainly be a contender.

From this section of the State comes another strong team in Keller and MacCarthy, of Maury High School. In recent tournaments around Norfolk, Keller has been regularly in the championship flights. MacCarthy, his teammate, is also a tip-top golfer. Petersburg has entered Burke and Cameron, a pair that acquitted themselves well in the interscholastic tournament at Charlotte, N. C. Good teams, too, five of them, are coming from Richmond. The Jones-Reigel combination, of Thomas Jefferson High School, looks particularly strong.

As to the other phase of the tournament, the play is to determine the interscholastic champion of Virginia, it will be Harper against the field. Of that fact there is no doubt. Besides the players mentioned above, other sterling young golfers who will always be in the van to pass Harper should he slip for any part of the 36-hole grind, are Howell, of John Marshall; Morgan, of St. Christopher's; Cunningham, of Danville; Grasty, of Staunton; Snead of Hot Springs; Spitzer, of Harrisonburg; Clift, of Alexandria; White, of Swavely; Monsted, of Woodberry, and many others.

To the player with the low medal score for the 36 holes will be presented a golf medal, inscribed to show that he is Virginia's 1931 interscholastic golf champion. A silver medal from the same die will go to the runner-up. And there will also be prizes for those in third and fourth places.

All contestants will be guests of Woodberry Forest School while here for the tournament. It is planned to make the tournament an annual affair.

Maryland U. Honors Athletes Next Tuesday

The annual athletic banquet of Maryland University will be held next Tuesday night in the university dining hall, it was announced last night. Details of the program have not yet been completed. The purpose of the affair is to bestow letter awards on members of various Maryland varsity athletic teams.

ST. JOHN'S GOLFERS WIN.

St. John's golf team added another victim to its rapidly growing list yesterday at Rock Creek when it defeated Takoma-Silver Spring by the decisive margin of 5½ to ½. The one bit of scoring on the part of the losers came when Stanley and Brown were all even.

FRATERS VIE WITH D. C. TEAM

Fraternity Nine to Meet Federals in Alexandria.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., May 14.—The Federal Storage nine, of the Capital City League in Washington, will trek to Alexandria on Saturday afternoon for a game with Ralph Scrivener's Alpha Delta Omega tossers. This contest will be played on Edward Duncan Field at 3 o'clock.

Tom Clarke, who had a trial with the Griffs, is one of the stars with the invaders. Jack Mattingly, brother of Earl Mattingly, pitcher with the Brooklyn Robins, is also with the team. Mann, ace of the Federals, will probably pitch the game against the Fraters.

Manager Scrivener stated today his starting hurler would be selected from Riley, Curtis and Bradley, while Russ Kidwell will catch. This will be Kidwell's first appearance in the line-up for ten days. He has been out of the game with illness. The following players are asked to report at 2 o'clock on Duncan Field: Kidwell, Peyton, Persey, Goodwin, Riley, Curtis, V. Bradley, J. Bradley, Given, Hamilton, Cabell, Bayliss, Brenner, Scrivener and Driefus.

The Fraters will meet the Solomon Island Semipros and the Tappahannock, Va., tossers in games later in the season. The Washington Baptist Club will be in Alexandria for a game on June 13.

Manager Bill Hammond, of the Virginia Athletic Club, announced today he had signed Gunny Davis to play first base for his club. Davis formerly starred with the Columbias. On Sunday the Virginians will entertain the Fort Myer tossers. This game will be played on Guckert's Field.

Next Sunday afternoon in Baggett Stadium, Charlie Corbett's St. Mary's Celtics will mix with the Washington Red Sox in a double-header. Practice for the Celtics will be held Friday.

Fishburne Rally Ties Fork Union Nine, 6-6

Special to The Washington Post.

Waynesboro, Va., May 14.—A desperate three-run rally started by Fishburne Military School after two men were out in the ninth inning, deadlocked the score at 6 to 6 in a return game with Fork Union Military Academy here today, and the contest was called on account of rain after neither side was able to count in the tenth stanza. The game was the most thrilling one seen here for a number of years, and Fishburne now has a season record of no defeats in ten starts.

Burgess, of Fork Union, garnered a homer and two singles in four attempts, while Legates accounted for a circuit blow and two doubles for Fishburne. Humphreys' four-base knock scoring two ahead of him placed the visitors in the lead which was maintained until Glover stole home with the tying tally in the ninth.

Fielding honors for the day went to Mattax and Burgess, who made spectacular outfield catches for Fishburne and Fork Union respectively. Sanders pitched a beautiful game for Fork Union, fanning eleven oppenents.

Navy's Crew Leaves For Philadlephia Race

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 14.—Navy's varsity crew left Annapolis for Philadelphia late this afternoon, ready for the three-cornered race on the Schuylkill Saturday. Eights of the University of Pennsylvania and Harvard will be the other entries, and the brush will be over a course of 1½ miles, instead of the Henley distance of a mile and five-sixteenths, the distance that marks most of the early collegiate races.

Granted a little respite from academic routine, the oarsmen were enabled to put in a brief but stiff workout before entraining for the Quaker City. The waters of the Severn were rough, so the crew confined its activities to the lee of College Creek. The boating of the oarsmen is the same as marked the opening brush of the season against Columbia nearly a month ago, except that Capt. Schoeni, who had been rowing No. 7 oar, shifted positions with Gray, No. 5. The other bladesmen are Stefanides, bow; Hunter, 2; Phillips, 3; Crinkley, 4; Jewett, 6; Shetlon, stroke, and Fulton, coxswain.

V. P. I. Freshmen Win As Sutherland Stars

Special to The Washington Post.

Blacksburg, Va., May 14.—Pitching masterly ball, Sid Sutherland, V. P. I. freshman hurler, blanked his old teammates from Hopewell High School, 2 to 0, here today. The clever little righ-hander allowed only one scratch hit until the ninth and turned back the visitors with three bingles.

The Gobblers raked the offerings of Sheally and Herbener for nine bingles and put men on base in every inning save the sixth but were held scoreless after the first round by Herberner.

Warrenton Nine Seeks Title in Game Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Warrenton, Va., May 14.—Warrenton High School plays its last game of the County Baseball League at Upperville tomorrow. A win there assures them of the undisputed championship as they have already defeated Calverton, Bealeton, Remington, Marshall and Hume, the other contestants, and suffered no defeats. Marshall appears to have the next strongest team in the league.

Eastern Nine Defeats Episcopal High, 8 to 7

Eastern High School downed Episcopal High at Alexandria yesterday, 8-7, in a game called at the end of the eighth inning by previous agreement. Hoof, of Episcopal, led his team in a belated eighth-inning rally when he cleared the bases with a healthy three-bagger to deep left centerfield. The home team scored five runs in this frame, but they were not enough to overtake the District aggregation. A. Taylor, Eastern shortstop, garnered two hits in four attempts and also played a bang-up game afield for the victors.

LEAGUE LEAD SOUGHT BY 4 TEAMS

Maryland in Battle for Title in Tri-State Circuit.

Special to The Washington Post.

UNIVERSITY, Va., May 14.—In the Tristate Intercollegiate League almost any sort of a shift in places may result from the play of the last four games, three of which are to be played during the next two afternoons.

Virginia's nine ends the 1931 season with games away from home tomorrow and the next day. The Cavaliers first play Washington and Lee in Lexington and then Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg.

Maryland at the same time has a chance to get back into the league leadership by defeating Virginia Military Institute in College Park tomorrow and then waiting to see what happens when North Carolina plays N. C. State next week. And this same game may be the means of helping to boost the Cadets into a final tie for first honors.

The Old Liners had a double chance to get the league trophy by winning two games this week. They lost their first opportunity when their game with Virginia was rained out yesterday. Two victories would have given them a tie with North Carolina for first position.

If they defeat the Cadets the Marylands will have a rating of .636 as compared with .667 for the Tarheels. Then if State takes the closing game in Raleigh the Terrapins will finish on top.

V. M. I. and W. & L. are now tied for third place with a percentage of .556. Victory for the Cadets over the Old Liners would send them up into second place. If W. & L. were to win at the same time the Lexington teams would be sharing the runner-up position.

In this case a State victory over Carolina would mean that the final standing of the league would be tied three ways, for the Cadets and Generals would be automatically sent higher. Further complications could be caused by another tied or postponed contest.

Standings in the league at present are as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	Tied.	Pct.
North Carolina	6	3	2	.667
Maryland	6	4	0	.600
V. M. I.	5	4	0	.556
Washington and Lee	5	4	0	.556
N. C. State	4	4	1	.500
W. & L.	3	5	1	.375
Virginia	1	7	0	.125

Washington-Lee Nine Beats Manassas, 6 to 2

Making his first start in the box for Washington and Lee High School, Printz set the Manassas High Team down with two runs, while his teammates were banging out six to take the victory. Manassas failed to score until the ninth when they pushed both of their tallies across. Clements, with a home run, triple and single, in three trips to the plate, stood out in the Washington and Lee attack.

F. R. KERSEY, SPORTSMAN, DEAD

Long Prominent Here as Manager of Sandlot Teams.

FRANK R. KERSEY, for a decade a well-known figure in local and nearby sandlot sports activities, died yesterday afternoon at his home in the McGill Building, 908 G street, where he was building manager. He had not been in the best of health of late and his family called in a physician early yesterday morning. He was 53 years old.

The formation of an amateur athletic club for Washington was a long-cherished ideal of Mr. Kersey. He persisted in this goal until the last few weeks of his life. He first became connected with sandlot activities when he took over the managerial duties of the Georgetown A. C. in 1920. A year later he formed the Waverly A. C., and it was while he was manager of the football team representing this club that the first night football game was played in Washington in 1923, featuring Waverly and the Beat Pleasant eleven.

Managed Celtics, Of Alexandria.

Mr. Kersey became manager of the St. Mary's Celtics Football Team, of Alexandria, after the disintegration of the Waverly Club. He maintained his contacts in all branches of local sandlot sports, however, and only last fall combined the remnants of the Georgetown and Knickerbocker Clubs to form the Georgetown-Knicks Football Team.

Mr. Kersey is survived by his wife, Mrs. Katie A. Kersey; three daughters, Irene and Mary Kersey, of this city, and Mrs. Leo M. Peterson, Panama Canal Zone; two sons, Vincent M. Kersey, of Panama, and John R. Kersey, of this city, and three grandchildren. A brother, Park A. Kersey, of Alexandria, also survives.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

HORSE SHOW EVENTS HELD, DESPITE RAIN

Several Hundred Spectators Visit Bradley Farms; Program Varied.

Sunshine and balmy weather which had been tentatively promised by the Weather Man for the second day of the National Capital Horse Show failed to materialize, but this did not dampen the spirits of several hundred sportsmen and sportswomen who attended the colorful meet at Bradley Farms.

When competition started shortly after noon the sun was peeping from behind scattered clouds, but in the end the clouds won the day and umbrellas were profusely scattered over the crowds lining the ring and filling the grandstand. There was a larger crowd at the show yesterday than there had been on the opening day, Wednesday, when it rained most of the day.

Secretary of State Stimson, one of the sponsors for the show, arrived in time yesterday to see the main events, and brought Senator William E. Borah along to see what Eastern horses could do. Conspicuous, too, among the crowds lining the ring was Senator Robert M. La Follette, who brought a crowd of young people out with him.

Handicap Jump Postponed.

Because of the number of entries in the hunter classes the schedule did not run off as planned, and the handicap jump, in which more entries had been registered than in any other event, had to be postponed until 12:15 o'clock today, in order to finish yesterday's classes before darkness.

In the principal event for District horsemen, the local hunters group, Hukupu, Maj. G. S. Patton's 6-year-old, came off with the handsome Peter Voorhees DeGraw Memorial Cup, taking it with a splendid performance which was hardly matched by any other horse during the afternoon's show. The cup was presented to Maj. Patton by Mrs. A. H. Ryan, one of the sponsors of the annual event.

Second place in the local hunters class went to George P. Plummer's Clearanfast, and third to Hawthorne, owned by the Preece Riding School. Fourth place was taken by Mermaid, owned by Mr. and Mrs. W. Jeffries Chewning, Jr.

Thundercrash Hunter Winner.

The day started with lightweight qualified hunters carrying up to 165 pounds to hounds, and Thundercrash, owned by Mrs. Simon Patterson, of Pittsburgh, Pa., took first place. Second went to Rockicy, owned by Dr. L. M. Allen, of Winchester, Va.; third to Play Days, owned by the Donnelly Stables in Boston, Mass., and fourth to Miss Russel, owned by H. E. Millard, of Annville, Pa.

Mrs. Allen Potts' Love Token took first place in the saddle horse class, Vi Dana, owned by Mrs. R. W. Butterworth, of Washington, captured the second place; third was taken by Harriet Lee, owned by Vernon G. Owen, also of this city, and fourth was taken by Sporty McCann, owned by another Washingtonian, Miss Emlen Knight Davies.

In the green hunters class, one of the most spectacular events yesterday, Portlight, one of the three winners, Mr. E. L. Redmon, seems to have brought from Middleburg, Va., took first honors, and the Donnelly Stable's Campanile was adjudged second winner. Third place went to Diamond Joe, owned by Roger Bayly, of Upperville, Va., and fourth to Your Way, another Redmon horse.

Quicksilver Takes First.

Miss Julia B. Whiting's Quicksilver took first place in the touch and out class, when only 6 out of the 58 entries managed to clear all stands perfectly. Second place went to Shere Khan, owned by Mrs. Cary Jackson, of Keswick, Va.; third to Miss Clebourne, from Fort Myer, and fourth to Tamerlane, ridden by her 13-year-old owner, Miss Helen W. Buchanan, of Warrenton, Va.

In the road hack class The Wasp, owned by the Trillora Farms, of Shrewsbury, N. J., came in for first place. Second went to Maj. Patton's Hukupu, third to W. Frank Burrows' Happy Time, and fourth to Glory Be, owned by Lawrence A. Baker, jr., of Chevy Chase, Md. Prizes in this class were presented by Miss Nancy Sheridan, of the National Theater Players.

Mellon Horse Triumphs.

Royal Earn, owned by the Rolling Rock Farms of Richard K. Mellon, at Ligonier, Pa., took first place in the thoroughbred hunters class, and Wayside, from the same stables, took fourth place in this class. Second went to Mrs. Patterson's Thundercrash, and third to the Donnelly Stables' Campanile.

Americana II, owned by Henry L. Fonda, of Charlottesville, Va., took first in the park saddle horse class, with Happy Days, from the Bell-Ho Stables, taking second. Third went to Love Token, splendidly ridden by Mrs. Allen Potts, the owner, and fourth to Mr. Kuhn's Flashing Through.

The American Remount Association class resulted in Your Way, the Redmon beauty, taking first honors, with Miss Whiting's In-the-Way coming in for second ribbon. Third place went to Mrs. C. F. Dodd's Pebbles, from Wolf Trap Farm, at Vienna, Va., and fourth to Don't Tell, owned by W. Frank Burrows.

Practical Sal Is Winner.

In the last of yesterday's competitions, that of the thoroughbred saddle horses, first honors went to Practical Sal, a Roger Bayly horse; second to Liberation, woned by E. M. Palmer, of Barcroft, Va.; third to Mr. Palmer's Rule Brittania, and fourth to Noble Roland, owned by Karl W. Corby, of Rockville, Md.

The hendicap jump, left over from yesterday's schedule, will start the events today, and that will be followed by the troopers' mounts class, open saddle class, polo mounts, five-gaited saddlres, the Corinthian class (open to all hunters), to be ridden in full dress hunting attire, the open saddle horse class, officers' chargers, the model hunter class, handy hunter class, three-gaited saddle horse stake, hack and hunter class, polo ponies, and hte special class for hunters, with the Riding and Hunt Club trophy as the first award.

Contrary to copular conception, tomorrow morning will be given over to the children's veents, and with the exception of two classes, tomorrow afternoon's entries will all be adult events with perhaps the most interesting of the show, that of the pony hunt teams, ladies hunters and the triple bar jumps. These events will close the annual show.

ALEXANDRIA IS HOST TO STATE BUILDERS

Tax Problems Discussed as Virginia League Opens Two-Day Session.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Annual conference of the Virginia State League of Building and Loan Associations opened with a two-day session here yesterday. State Senator John A. Lesner, of Norfolk, presided and delivered the opening address. The conference is composed of representatives of associations with resources of approximately $70,000,000 in the State, and a membership of approximately 50,000 home owners in city and suburban areas and a number of farm owners in many sections.

Senator Lesner, a member of the finance committee of the State Senate, declared that the return of prosperity in Virginia would be hastened by alleviating the tax burden through a system that would distribute the cost of local government among all citizens who benefit from the functions now paid for, to a large degree, by real estate holders. The industrial development of Virginia, he said, is retarded by the load on real estate, and the increased delinquent tax lists are an evidence of the inability of land owners in counties and cities to stand the burden.

He urged the conference to study the problem and give consideration to development of a cooperative movement among cities, towns and counties that would present a fair tax reform plan to the General Assembly at Richmond in January.

He indicated the present State tax system is satisfactory as a means of financing purely State functions, producing revenue for which there appears to be a place already fixed, and while making no suggestions he indicated that other sources of taxation should be developed and citizens reached for support of local government who now pay little or no taxes.

Invocation was delivered by the Rev. Emmette R. Spencer, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, after which committees were named, and Walter S. Pratt, jr., of Washington, spoke on "The Relationship of Banks and Building and Loan Associations," declaring the two kinds of institutions have mutual interests and urging a greater degree of cooperation.

R. H. Fleet, president of the Building and Loan Association, of Richmond, explained methods of real estate appraisals to insure protection for associations and, while suggesting liberality with a conservative trend, declared the personal factor should not be overlooked in fixing the value on which a loan is to be made.

Greetings of the United States League of Building and Loan Associations were brought by H. Morton Bodfish, of Chicago, who declared that the growth and progress of associations of this character have aided in averting a more serious financial condition in the country in the last two years.

The meeting adjourned for luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Senator Lesner presided and visitors were welcomed by Frank W. Noxon and Dan S. Hollenga, president and business manager, respectively, of the local Chamber of Commerce.

In the afternoon John A. Petty, of the Washington Real Estate Board, gave a talk on the responsibility of building and loan officers and directors to their communities and their development.

James Ford, executive director of the Better Homes Association, urged that attention be given to the improved character of homes.

Judge Oscar L. Shewmake, counsel of the Virginia League, of Richmond, a former member of the State Corporation Commission, explained features of a proposed legislative program.

Among speakers today will be Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, who will talk on "Benefits of City Planning," and immediately after his address there will be a report of the committee on resolutions and balloting for officers. Luncheon, at which Judge Shewmake will preside, will be served at 1:30 o'clock. It will be followed by a contest for a silver cup to go to the man making the best extemporaneous five-minute address. Report of election, introduction of incoming officers, announcement of standing committees and handling of unfinished business will close the session.

City council held a special meeting yesterday afternoon to consider the report on the high schools of Alexandria by Dr. W. J. Y. Critchley, of Columbia University, who made a recent survey of the school system for the Alexandria school board. This report was given to Mayor Ticer by Urban S. Lambert, chairman of the board, and Mayor Ticer immediately summoned members of council. Upon motion of Councilman Herbert, seconded by Councilman Lamond, members of council will confer with the school board on the report after all have had an opportunity to read the report.

Council was furnished with only one copy of the report, and that will be read in turn by each member of that body before being placed in the files of the clerk, where it may be read by any citizen of the city. City Attorney Carl Budwesky stated at the meeting of council, at which a committee of citizens appeared asking council to compel the school board to rescind its action in the request for the replacement of Col. Deems, professor of military science and tactics, that all school records are public property and any citizen should have access to the minutes and records of that board at all times.

A committee from the citizens committee on schools was to appear before the meeting of the school board last night to request that the report of Dr. Critchley be made public, but in view of the fact that the report had been furnished to the council decided to defer action.

Delegates were elected to attend the annual meeting of the Baltimore Conference in Roanoke in September, at the session yesterday morning of the District Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South. They are: the Rev. C. D. Hess, Hamilton; C. R. McDonald, Gainesville; E. S. Moore, Stafford; J. E. W. Timberman, Alexandria; R. E. Berry, McLean; C. C. Claypool, Morrisville; T. T. Taylor, Vienna; Mrs. Annie G. Cline, Dumfries; A. B. Young, Fredericksburg; J. F. Myers, Alexandria; Miss Estelle Holden, Herndon; A. B. Richards, Leesburg; Jesse W. Richards, Marshall.

Alternates will be John H. Trimyer, Alexandria; French Fleming, Occoquan; F. D. Gaskins, Warrenton; J. A. Woodward, Clarendon, and S. T. Weir, Manassas.

Speakers yesterday included Dr. Hugh Black, of Randolph-Macon Woman's College, Lynchburg, who spoke on "Christian Endeavor," and Miss Etta Mai Russell, of Washington, speaker on "Children's Work."

The afternoon session was given over to round table discussion under leadership of the Rev. Dr. W. G. Winton, of Washington.

The Order of the Red Cross will be conferred tonight by Old Dominion Commandery No. 11, Knights Templar, at the regular conclave at 8 o'clock in the Masonic Temple.

Dr. William Mosely Brown, president of Atlantic University and grand junior warden of the Grand Commandery of Virginia, will be speaker Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Ascension Day exercises in the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Temple. An invitation has been extended to the general public by Commander R. Samuel Luckett to attend this service.

The commandery will assemble in the asylum at 2 o'clock in full uniform and parade to the temple, headed by the Alexandria Citizens' Band.

Howard T. Colvin, who for the last six years has been president of the Alexandria Trades Council, has tendered his resignation because of having been appointed to a position in the Department of Labor, which will require his full time. Mr. Colvin was presented with a gold watch in appreciation of his services with the Trades Council.

J. W. Deavers has been selected to succeed him.

Washington Child Is Hurt in Crash

Two-Year-Old Girl Suffers Fracture of Skull in Virginia Crash.

A Washington couple and their child were injured, the latter seriously, yesterday, when their automobile was struck by another on the Jefferson highway, in King George County, Va. They are Mr. and Mrs. William Grey and 2-year-old Jean Grey.

At Emergency Hospital the girl was said to have a fracture of the skull and her condition was described as serious. Her parents escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

According to Mr. Grey, he was driving South when an automobile going in the opposite direction skidded off the road as the two machines neared each other, then skidded back on the highway and crashed into his car. Mrs. Louis Farrell and her two young sons, Douglas, 1 year old, and Darrell, 2, who were riding with the Greys, were not hurt.

Mr. Grey said he did not obtain the names of the two men who were in the second car.

MONTGOMERY ASKS SUPPORT FOR CHEST

League Still Lacks $8,000 of Reaching Goal; Radio Appeal Is Made.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post,
9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md.
Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Pointing out that the Social Service League of Montgomery County does not benefit in any way from the Washington Community Chest, despite the fact that the most populous sections of the county border on Washington the citizens regard themselves as virtually part of Washington, Miss Willie Greene Day, executive secretary of the league, yesterday appealed to the citizens of the county over station WMAL to lend their support to the league's drive for funds.

The league is endeavoring to raise $8,000 to complete its budget requirements for 1931-1932. Walter B. Armstrong, of Cabin John, is chairman of the drive. The Montgomery County commissioners have contributed $11,000, and $5,000 has been raised by other bodies, leaving the $8,000 remainder to be raised among the citizenry.

Miss Day outlined the family case, juvenile court and child welfare work carried on by the league's staff of five trained social workers, and told of the increase in need and unemployment caused by the recent drought and depression. Hundreds are jobless, she said, while many tenant farmers are only now trying to recover from the effects of the drought. Dozens of worthy people can not even afford carfare to the doctor's office, let alone pay doctor bills, she said.

The speaker explained in detail how the social service worker investigates each case and provides relief only after the merits of the case have been established. The Social Service League is the only general relief agency in the county and the only agency available to handle the 700 or more welfare cases that arise in the course of each year.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. TWITCHELL ON DEAD LANGUAGES.

DEAR EDITOR:

Nothing I have read in the papers in months has caused me to feel so low as the announcement the other day that Yale University has voted to scrap Latin and Greek as degree requirements. I never knew any graduates of Latin and Greek courses who knew much about Latin and Greek, but that wasn't the point. The point was that they had spent three or four years where those languages were on tap.

* * * *

It always seemed to me that Latin and Greek gave colleges much of their halo. (Halo is a Latin word, by the way: halo, halamus, halitosis.) A chief reason for the awe and respect in which I held college graduates was the feeling that they had studied the classical languages and could read those dates on the corner stones of public buildings after a reasonable struggle. After all, there was many a college graduate who held our respect only by virtue of the fact he could show his rowing suit and his Greek letter society pin.

* * * *

And now Yale, one of the greatest American universities, whether you judge it by its football bowl, its building operations or its educational standards, comes out with a decision to drop the time-honored regulations, which have made Latin and Greek as indispensable to college life as a mandolin, a white sweater, a meerschaum pipe and at least one decision over a city policeman. It just doesn't seem possible.

* * * *

THERE are certain institutions, customs and precedents in our American colleges that should not be violated. The inclusion of Latin and Greek was one of them and I can imagine old Elihu Yale turning over in his grave at the news of the faculty's decision that as features of an educational equipment they are not so hot. It is unfair to the student who is too light for football and too heavy for a dance partner. The boy who bruised easily at outdoor sports, didn't know what to say to girls and didn't like synthetic gin always had one refuge—he could concentrate on the classics and make his mark as a Greek scholar.

I am aware that Greek and Latin may still be studied if a student insists, but this in itself destroys some of its glory. I just can't understand how those Yale professors ever got around to such a decision, as Yale has always seemed the very home of dead languages. There are professors there who would rather read Homer in the original than the news of an industrial revival in English. I personally know a Yale professor who has never owned an auto because the State wouldn't let him have a license tag with Greek letters.

* * * *

As I say, it is all very mysterious and I can only explain it by a theory that Yale is so busy putting up new Harkness dormitories, gyms, libraries and dramatic schools that the faculty has lost its perspective. However, I guess nothing can be done about it now. But who is going to translate those Latin quotations in our best sellers from now on?

Yours,
ELMER TWITCHELL.

Just a good, clean-living boy, obviously. No cigarettes, or anything like that. Nicotine stunts the growth and discolors the fingers. No liquor, either; liquor is a bad habit, and, besides, it's AGAINST THE LAW!

ARLINGTON PRIMARY SET FOR AUGUST 4

Nominees for State Senate and House Will Be Named by Democrats.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

In accordance with a ruling of the county Democratic committee, the primary for the selection of nominees for the State Senate and House of Delegates will be held Tuesday, August 4. All anticipating entering the race are notified by the committee that they must file their intentions with the county chairman, William L. Bragg, on or before noon of June 4.

For the State Senate there are but two candidates in the race, Charles T. Jesse, former member of the House of Delegates, where he served for four sessions, and John Rust, Fairfax County attorney.

While there appears to be strong sentiment for a Democratic primary to select candidates for membership to the county board, there has been no definite action in that direction and leaders claim if a primary should be held it should be for all county officers or none.

George M. Yeatman, of Ashton Heights, announced last night that he has withdrawn from the race for membership to the County Board.

Mr. Yeatman stated that owing to pressing business and having been recently elected president and general manager of the Consolidated Hardware Stores in Washington he feels it would be impossible for him to give the office the attention it requires.

Plans to file a suit testing the power of the board of zoning appeals of Arlington County is being given serious consideration, according to a statement by Robert H. Forman, zoning administrator, last night.

The suit will be based upon the granting of a permit to Charles Puglisi, Livingstone Heights grocer, for the enlargement of his store. As stated by Forman, the store is nonconforming in that it is located in a residential area, having been in its present location several years prior to the adoption of the zoning ordinance.

A permit was sought from the zoning administrator several weeks ago, but it was denied. The matter was then taken before the zoning appeal board and the permit was granted.

Forman stated yesterday that both he and County Engineer C. L. Kinnier are afraid that such action will eventually break down the "nonconforming" section of the zoning ordinance and, for this reason, are contemplating taking the matter before Judge Walter T. McCarthy in Circuit Court.

Supporting the action of the administrator and county engineer, Commonwealth's Attorney William C. Gloth has addressed a letter to J. Hammond Brewer, jr., chairman of the zoning appeal board, in which he claims that information coming to him is to the effect that the board failed to meet any of the requirements of the ordinance in ruling on the case.

Section 12 of the ordinance, he says, provides that an appeal from a ruling of the administrator must be taken within fifteen days of the denial of a permit, and Section 13 provides that the appeal board must "fix a reasonable time for the hearing and give public notice thereof."

Gloth asks that Brewer see him at once about the matter, as he has been advised to present it to the Circuit Court.

It was learned last night that a map showing the proposed improvement to the waterfront at Rosslyn will be submitted to the county board for its approval.

The contract which was awarded to the Northern Virginia Construction Co. for the improvement to Rucker avenue and a section of Courthouse road in Lyon Village will be signed by the board, it was learned. It is understood that work on this project will be started within the next ten days.
